PLEADS TO JURY FOR LIFE

Innocent of Wife-Murder, Wohlgemuth Declares in Final Talk to Jurors

Frank B. Wohlgemuth, charged with the murder of his wife, sent his case into the hands of a jury today with an appeal for acquittal and the statement that he is innocent. "Mr. Foreman and gentlemen of the jury," said Wohlgemuth, "I hope and trust you will come to some sort of an understanding and bring in a verdict of not guilty. I am telling you I am innocent of this crime. I never committed this crime, so help me God." he jury retired at 1:40.

District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier said today that Frank Wohlgemuth's sisters lied when they testified for Wohlgemuth, who is on trial in the Suffolk County Superior Court for the murder of his wife.

Mr. Pelletier, addressing the jury, said that Wohlgemuth's alleged admission that he gave his wife salts was true.

Pelletier said in part: "We all agree that Frank Wohlgemuth got cyanide of sodium from Connors at the navy yard. We all agree that it is a deadly poison. We all agree that Mary Wohlgemuth died from the same poison. The question is did Mary Wohlgemuth take this poison and commit suicide, for which no evidence has been offered. If so, why did she do it, at just the time when things were beginning to look better for her as the defendant himself testified? You never read or heard of a suicide in the presence of a family. The suicide always goes off to the attic or some other retired place and hides himself.

"A suicide never takes her life in the presence of husband and child, as, it is alleged, happened in this case. A suicide does not remark on the bitterness of the death potion. They don't expect it to taste nice.

"If you say this man is not guilty then you also say this woman committed suicide and died with a lie on her lips, when she said: 'Nothing, nothing.'

"I have been criticised because I would not allow little Ethel to stay here in the court during the trial and listen to all the dirty evidence. To be sure I am a bachelor and Mr. Daley is a father—very much so—but that is the way I feel about children.

"In Wohlgemuth's testimony, given to Inspector Dennessey and taken down by a police stenographer, he said he poured the water in his wife's dose of salts and he noticed it was green when she drank it. Yesterday the defendant said it was either not or he did not remember. You are asked to believe the murderer and disbelieve everybody else.

"The suicide theory was a frame-up not by Attorney Daley, but by Mrs. Hickey. She thought of it in time to tell a representative of the Boston American on April 4 that Mary Wohlgemuth, sometime during the previous week, had threatened to commit suicide. Why didn't she say that it was half an hour before the death of the woman that she uttered this threat, as she testified in this court?

"The defence has dragged a re-

THE DEAN MYSTERY

Silent Night Riders Near Before Doctor Was Murdered

The two preceding installments of the Dr. Dean murder mystery contained a summary of the features in this the strangest homicide in the criminal annals of New England. They told of Dr. Dean's efforts to secure the services of an agent of the Department of Justice to ferret out a German spy plot, and the arrangements made with Mrs. Horace Morrison of Boston, a Summer resident, to telephone her when signal lights were seen. Mrs. Morrison went to Boston and conferred with the Federal authorities. The following day she learned of Dean's murder and notified the Federal agents. Her last talk with the murdered man was given in detail, and mention was made of a threatening letter which Dr. Dean received. These installments also referred to the lack of co-operation between the various authorities and their failure to use evidence, which they were said to have obtained, in running down suspects.

This fascinating history of a murder will be continued daily in the Boston American.

By BERT FORD.

A highly significant feature of the Dean murder case at Jaffrey, N. H., for which nobody has ever been brought to justice, was the fact that a man who was particularly active in that region, and who with others was out a great deal at all hours of the night, had been under surveillance by Department of Justice agents for fully six months prior to the tragedy.

Another collateral feature of importance was the German submarine activities off the New England coast. Critics who doubted the purpose of the signal lights and who attributed them to fancy are forgetting that German U-boats sank vessels off Nantucket, off the New Jersey coast and one boldly invaded Massachusetts waters and bombarded a tug and three empty coal barges off the town of Orleans in Cape Cod.

Jack Ainslee, a twelve-year-old boy, son of the skipper of one of the barges, ran into the cabin and procured an American flag which he defiantly waved at the German U-boat while the bombardment was at its height.

LENOIR ILL, SHOT IN CHAIR

Condemned Spy Had Been Kept Alive Two Weeks by Use of Drugs

By International News Service.

Lenoir, who had been ill, was shot as he sat in a chair on the execution grounds. He was carried to the scene of his death in an ambulance, protesting his innocence all the way.

Lenoir was to have been shot a fortnight ago, but gained a respite on the ground that he could give the government important evidence that might be of use in the trial of Joseph Caillaux, former Premier.

Since then he has been in the hospital, and it was reported on occasions that his condition was so serious he had been kept alive only through the use of drugs.

Van Buren said "Red" activities on a broad scale had been unearthed.

PALMER FEARS DISASTER TO INDUSTRY

Warns Labor of Increasing Demands; Urges Fair Price Board to Cut High Prices

"Industrial disaster will overtake the United States, if insistent demands of labor for high wages continue, Attorney-General Palmer declared this afternoon addressing State officials and the mayors of a number of Massachusetts cities, at a conference at the State House.

"The demands for higher wages have been made necessary by increased living costs the Attorney General said but he warned against "continuing the process indefinitely.

"The establishment in every city and town of a fair price committee will prevent profiteering, Attorney General Palmer declared.

"The creation of these committees will serve the purpose of keeping the dealers in necessities in line as they will not wish to suffer the odium which will come to the public mind if they refuse to co-operate with their fellows.

SEIZURES EFFECTIVE.

"The seizure of hoarded foods has been salutary in effecting a reduction in prices in communities in which stocks of surplus foods have been taken over by Department of Justice agents and sold at a fair price. The campaign of seizure will continue."

"The co-operation of the public is necessary in cutting down high prices," he said.

The Attorney-General declared that machinery was being built up for the creation of fair price committees everywhere. They are to consist of a wholesaler a retailer, a representative of labor and a representative of the consumer of each town.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Secretary of Labor Wilson's proposal for wage increases for the coal miners to avert the threatened coal strike was rejected this afternoon by both the miners and the operators.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Organized labor is planning a gigantic blow. This was learned at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor here today.

Aroused by its failure in the Industrial Conference, organized labor is today planning to work more diligently than ever for nation-wide organization of workers.

A general conference will be called at an early date to deal with the future plans of labor, it was formally announced at federation headquarters.

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, has sent a telegram to the Illinois Federation of Labor, declaring that the executive council of the A. F. of L. has voted for a general council to plan labor's campaign. The telegram was sent in reply to resolution adopted by the Illinois Federation of Labor yesterday, urging Gompers to take steps to form "one big union" in North America.

Gompers' telegram was as follows:

"The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, before its adjourning Tuesday evening, adopted a declaration for a conference to be held at an early date to deal with several of the subjects contained in your telegram."

Organized labor is to join forces with the farmers. This is one of the results of the defeat of labor's program in the industrial conference.

A meeting of representatives of the American Federation of Labor, the four big railroad brotherhoods and the Farmers' National Council will be held either in Chicago or Washington next month, it is announced. The meeting will effect a powerful alliance between the farmers and workers to reduce the cost of living and to formulate a general economic and political program that will include governmental ownership of railroads and coal mines, government control of the packing industry along the lines suggested by the Federal Trade Commission, and increased taxation of big incomes.

The proposed alliance would include 4,000,000 workers and 750,000 farmers. Among the farmers' organizations which will take part in the meeting next month are the Non-Partisan League, the National Gleaner Federation, and the Grange.

Organized labor will co-operate with the farmers to reduce the cost of living by eliminating the middleman through the establishment of government controlled central wholesale markets and by throwing open as public places privately owned plants and warehouses necessary to provide facilities for competitive marketing.

The farmers will help labor to establish collective bargaining and other principles for which it fought in President Wilson's industrial conference.

Industrial Conference Public Group Plans Report to President

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The remnants of President Wilson's industrial conference—the public group—had nothing to do today except consider plans for a report on industrial conditions throughout the country, as desired by the President.

The group met this afternoon to formulate those plans and also to draft a letter to President Wilson of its intentions.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as head of a sub-committee, will draw up the tentative report.

A large number of the public group are frankly pessimistic over the situation. These members, who include Bernard M. Baruch, are skeptical of any beneficial results coming from the group's continued labors. Some of them do not believe that any report formulated would be taken by the country generally as being disinterested.

Miners and Operators Reject Wilson Proposal for Increase of Wages

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Secretary of Labor Wilson's proposal for wage increases for the coal miners to avert the threatened coal strike was rejected this afternoon by both the miners and the operators. Secretary Wilson appealed to the conference to remain in Washington until he could communicate with the White House.

The conference agreed to adjourn until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared at the close of the conference that the situation was "less hopeful than last night."

Secretary Wilson's proposal would have declared that while the legal termination of the war is indefinite, "the high cost of living is an existing fact," and that the increases "therefore should go into effect November 1, 1919."

This met with disapproval from the operators, who contend that the present contract lasts until the termination of the war.

Clash of Principles Upset the Conference, Declares Judge Gary

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 24.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation, today attributed the breaking up of President Wilson's Industrial Conference to a clash of principles.

Judge Gary addressed the American Iron and Steel Institute at the Hotel Commodore.

"Every proposition contended for by the labor unions at the industrial conference led to domination of the shop and of the men by union labor leaders," said Gary. "Every position taken by the other side centred on the open shop.

"This is the great question confronting the American public and in fact the world public.

"From 90 to 99 per cent. or more of the labor of this country is non-union. It is for them and the employers generally—and the large class of men and women who are not, strictly speaking, employers or wage-earners, to determine whether or not it is best for all of humanity to have things totally organized.

"Judged by experience, we believe it is for the best interests of employer and the employed that the general public have a business conducted on a basis of what we term the open shop, thus permitting any man to engage in any line of employment, or any employer to secure services of any workman on terms agreed upon between the two, whether the workman is or is not connected with a labor union.

"The verdict of the people at large will finally determine this question and that decision will be right."

PALMER OPENS FIGHT HERE ON PROFITEERS

said, "I have had the benefit of his counsel and assistance in all matters relating to the city of Boston. He was especially helpful and used all the authority vested in him by the law in the restoration of law and order. We acted together at that time, as at all other times, with the best judgment that our combined advisors of the city and State could furnish. Whatsoever results there were were secured through our joint efforts."

"The entire world at this time is facing a shortage of materials, an unrest which interferes with production and here and there a greedy disposition which results in profiteering. In addition to this we have had a great increase in the amount of money and credit so that the relation between money and materials has changed, causing a rise in prices.

WORK REMEDIES UNREST.

"We come here today to suggest some remedies. We have to consider not the individual but society as a whole. If there is a shortage of material it means that society should use what it has on hand sparingly. If there is an unrest which as resulted in a lack of production the only remedy is for a change of sentiment. Employment is the best remedy for unrest.

"The greedy can be dealt with to a certain extent by law. We have undertaken that in Massachusetts by a statute making it a crime to charge and maintain unreasonable prices. Another remedy is by publicity. The ultimate remedy for profiteering is an increased production. There can be no profiteering except where there is a scarcity.

"All of these questions affect not only Massachusetts but the nation and the entire world. The remedies that could be applied by the nation cannot be applied by the State for the reason that those who might desire to influence can easily remove themselves, and more easily remove their products across the State line, and more easily still never bring them into Massachusetts."

'FITZ' BITTER IN DENUNCIATION OF TAGUE

"Wouldn't Have His Conscience For All Offices in World," Declares Unseated Congressman

"Tague's words speak for themselves. Let the public judge them," was Martin Lomasney's comment today on the unseating by Congress of John F. Fitzgerald in favor of Peter F. Tague of Charlestown.

John F. Fitzgerald, who was unseated as a member of the National House yesterday, issued a statement today bitterly denouncing Peter F. Tague, who was seated in his place as a member of Congress. Fitzgerald said:

"The fight is over. Tague is in. And I am out, but I would not be in Tague's boots when he goes to Boston and meets the men whom he deprived of citizenship for a good deal. I suppose, however, that this thing will not bother him as he has proved himself to be of such a character that nothing phases him. I imagine a man entering upon his course as a member of the House of Representatives, giving me the lie deliberately upon the floor when I asked him to answer to his statement that he was nominated without the vote of Ward 5 if the official return did not show Mr. Kelliher leading him until old Ward 8 which is now included in Ward 5, was reached.

"I knew for years that he had been called 'Peter Truthless Tague,' but I could hardly believe my ears when I repeated official figures, and he said they were not so. He lied also when I asked him about Captain Goggin, who, according to the record voted from his own house for four years while he and his family lived in Somerville.

"I am anxious that the interests of the district be promoted, and I would naturally like to see the strongest man possible represent it. Mr. Tague, unfortunately, does not meet the requirements in any way.

"The worst phase of his character developed yesterday, when he appealed to the narrow prejudices and bigotry of many members of the House by charging Martin Lomasney with commanding that President Wilson be asked on the floor of the House when the President addressed Congress on his peace mission, what position he would take with England on the Irish question.

"Senator Williams' recent speech in the Senate had convinced Tague that many members of Congress had a bitter feeling against the Irish, and he capitalized it. Shame upon him!

"I would sink into my grave before I would be capable of such an act. He got the job—but at what a price! I wouldn't have his conscience today for all of the offices in the world."

FOUR ARRESTED FOLLOWING GUN FIGHT

Thousands in Alleged Loot of Gang Recovered by Portsmouth, N. H., Police

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 24.—Following a gun battle with police early today, four alleged burglars were surprised and arrested later in a lodging house conducted by Mrs. Mary Whalen, formerly of Haverhill, Mass. Mrs. Whalen was also arrested, charged with receiving stolen goods.

The men are said by the police to constitute a gang which has been looting the unoccupied Summer homes of the wealthy along the New Hampshire coast. Property worth thousands of dollars was recovered in the Whalen house. It included not only jewelry and silver, but lamps, ornaments and bits of brica-brac alleged to have been taken from the cottages.

The men gave the names of John Pontewalt, Robert Noble, Charles Mitchell and John Pecunies. They were first seen by Patrolman Sullivan and Kelley riding through the side streets of Portsmouth in an automobile.

The officers attempted to halt them. When their challenge was ignored they fired on the occupants of the machine and the men in the car answered their fire.

Later a plainclothes man located them in the Whalen lodging house on Deer street.

WOMAN IDENTIFIES DEATH HANDKERCHIEF IN BROADWELL CASE

MARK LIKE OTHERS IN LAUNDRY

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 24.—Testimony regarding ownership of the "death handkerchief" with which Mrs. Lavina C. Broadwell was strangled provided a sensation today in the trial of George A. Long, charged with the woman's murder.

Mrs. Laura A. Houghton, proprietor of the Barre Steam Laundry, identified the laundry mark on the handkerchief as the same as that on others in a bundle of soiled linen left at her establishment by "F. Baron." This package of laundry was never called for.

Mrs. Houghton was put on the stand when the trial opened today, in the temporary absence of Mrs. Edith Edson, star witness for the State.

Mrs. Edson arrived late, after State officers had begun a search for her. She testified as to the conduct of Long, the defendant, the Sunday morning that Mrs. Brodwell's body was discovered in the Wheelock garden.

Mrs. Houghton said that State Attorney Davis came to her daundry and removed three handkerchiefs. The bundle with the remainder of its contents was in her possession until taken as evidence.

BOUGHT IN HOTEL ROOM.

At this point Mrs. Edson arrived in court and was placed on the stand for cross-examination. She reiterated her story of having escorted "Jack" Fraser, who roomed at her home, from the Hotel Russell to her house on Merchant street. He was suffering from cuts on the head, received during a fight with "Alex" Mutch, in a room at the Hotel Russell. Blood found in this room was at first thought to be a clew to Mrs. Brodwell's murder.

When questioned as to when she went to the Russell, Mrs. Edson became confused. She stammered contradictory replies to the queries hurled at her in rapid succession by Attorney Hoar. At first she stated that she went to the Russell on Saturday afternoon. She next said it was Saturday morning, then again that it was in the afternoon.

The witness' previous statement, when she reached home with Fraser, who was intoxicated, she locked him in his room, was the subject of a severe grilling. The witness had declared on direct examination that about 5 o'clock Sunday morning she unlocked Fraser's room door, but did not go in.

Q.—Didn't you go right in to Fraser's room Sunday morning, without unlocking the door? asked Attorney Hoar.

A.—No, sir.

Q.—How long did you talk with him about the key Mutch had taken from him? A.—About five minutes.

WENT TO GET KEY.

Q.—Did he ask you to go to the Parker house to get the key Mutch took from him? A.—No, sir.

Q.—But you went just the same?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Why didn't you let Fraser go after the key? demanded Attorney Hoar. A.—I was afraid he would get in more trouble with Mutch, responded the witness.

Eugene Prindle, who has already appeared upon the stand, was recalled.

Q.—Did you observe some tire tracks on Keith avenue the morning following the murder? A.—I did.

Q.—Could you tell what kind of tires those tracks and in which direction the car which made them was going? A.—I could not.

Having scored scored a point the admissions of Prindle, that in spite of his knowledge of automobiles he could not tell what kind of tires made the marks on Keith avenue, in the spot where Mrs. Brodwell's body was found, the defence called for Irving Smith. This witness had already declared that he followed the tire tracks on Keith avenue along Summer street to Elm. He asserted that the treks matched exactly the tires which were on the "mystery car" driven by Long.

Smith claimed likewise that he saw a car answering the description of the one Long had on the murder night, passing near the scene of the crime at approximately the time that Mrs. Broadwell is alleged to have been killed.

495 VESSELS IN NEW YORK TIED UP BY STRIKE

$4,000,000 Lost by Shippers; 28,000 Persons Stranded. Awaiting Passage

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 24.—Four hundred and ninety-five vessels, with a tonnage of 1,693,700, lay idle in New York harbor today as a result of the longshoremen's strike. Virtually every dock and drydock in the harbor was occupied, every anchorage filled and 130 vessels, unable to find berths, were anchored in the lower bay. The piers are lined with freight awaiting shipment. Vessels crammed with cargoes, much of it perishable, which cannot be unloaded because no men can be obtained.

Anywhere from $5,000 to 75,000 bags of mail, much of it urgent and important, are piled up on the piers. Shipping men said today they have already lost approximately $4,000,000 by the strike. Shippers estimated that nearly $1,000,000 has been lost in perishable goods. asenger traffic is equally tied up. Sixty-five of the idle vessels are passenger carrying, twenty-five of them big trans-Atlantic liners. It is estimated that 28,000 persons are stranded in New York hotels awaiting passage.

COPY OF PRESS NEWS.
Cluthorpes, England.
British Press, London.

It was announced by the British authorities here today that the Mediterranean and North Sea mine fields laid during the war have been cleared, and are claimed as sufficient for normal sea traffic. The task of clearance involved a close of thirty thousand square miles and a greater portion of the area had to be covered twice and three times. The larger percentage of work was allotted to Great Britain, since the American mine clearance service was in its infancy, but after careful instruction they were able to clear their barrage laid in 1917 and 1918 with fair results. Up to the end of August, 1919, most of British, German and American mines had been accounted for in home waters and North Sea, due to the quick and efficient work of the British Clearance Service.

Denies British Told U. S. How to Get Mines

Aboard U. S. S. Heron, September 27, 1919.

Editor Boston American:

Enclosed you will find a true copy of press news sent broadcast from Cluthorpes, England. I wish to voice the sentiments of the 3,000 American bluejackets now engaged in this work. I also wish to give to the public a few figures and facts that are official and will, I think, repudiate statements of enclosed press news.

The American public must give us credit is due us, even though they do not know thoroughly the danger involved in sweeping American mines. The mine that America used in this barrage is entirely different from any other mine in the world. The peculiarity of this mine is that a steel vessel can be blown up without coming in contact with one.

To offset this explosion a sweeper must be equipped with an extensive and costly electrical apparatus which no British sweeper had, therefore if they succeeded in destroying any of our mines it was due to their poor navigation, causing them to run across our fields. It will be noted that any British sweeper that crossed our fields did not get through without casualties.

The official report of American mines blown up by British sweepers (by accident) was a total of sixty-one, which, according to common reasoning, is a very small percentage of 56,571 American mines laid in the North Sea. It may not be amiss to state here that we did not keep record of British mines we sunk by gun-fire, owing to the fact that the American sator received no bounty for the mines he destroyed, as did the British sailor.

In the North Sea barrage the United States laid thirteen fields, averaging fifty miles each and containing approximately 5,000 mines in each field. To compare with this impregnable wall of destruction the British laid eleven short twenty-mile fields containing about 1,600 mines apiece.

Our American experimenters can substantiate my statement, I think, when I say the British did not have the knowledge required of this intricate weapon to give us instructions.

It is not a fact of the utmost importance that a German submarine entered our mine blockade and survived. We have lost a few men, it is true, even with our ships protected as they are electrically. What would become of the British sweepers, which are not so protected?

These are only a few of the facts that can not be disputed. We are entitled to some credit from the folks back home, and the usual thing after we have obtained victory against our enemies is to ignore your fighting forces, so we will "carry on," expecting nothing because it was our duty.

We can stand this, but not the false and absurd accusations of a foreign press. Yours very truly,

GEORGE ELWOOD DE CHENE,
Chief Quartermaster, U. S. N.

FIVE ARRESTED IN $4000 FUR ROBBERY

"Engine trouble," coupled with the quick work of Sergeant Edward A. Ryan of Station 3, resulted in the capture of five alleged fur thieves in an automobile, at the point of a gun, on Lynde street, in the West End section, today.

The men gave their names as follows: Edward Lewis, twenty-two, of Appleton street; Joseph Taylor, twenty-two, and Edward Geller, both of Hancock street; Michael Mcgrath, twenty-one, of Fairfield place, and Frank Vara, eighteen, of Prince street.

The last named was the driver of the five-passenger automobile, which is the property of his father. The furs stolen, valued at $4,000, and found in the automobile with the five men, have been traced to the store of Morris Marcus of No. 400 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, from which place it is alleged they were stolen a few hours after midnight.

The men were turned over to the police of the Dudley street station and taken to the Roxbury court for arraignment. They were ordered held in $15,000 each for a later hearing.

The capture of the five men, efficiently handed, was daring and sensational. Sergeant Ryan was standing on Lynde street and saw the automobile turn the corner with its five occupants in a cramped and awkward position. He became suspicious and watched the progress of the car.

A short distance away it stopped because of engine trouble. The driver got out and proceeded to investigate. This gave Ryan ample time to reach them, and being suspicious he drew his gun on approaching, ordering them to throw their hands up. They obeyed.

Ryan ordered the driver into the machine and with drawn gun compelled him to drive the party to Station 3, where they were searched and booked. A gun was found on Vara. State Guardsmen carried the furs into the station. Later they were traced to the store of Marcus.

WOHLGEMUTH'S CHILD PRAISED AS WITNESS

Alleged Wife Slayer's Attorney Compares Little Girl to 'Trinity of Ladies'

ligious atmosphere into this case. It has attempted to picture the prisoner with a rosary in one hand, and cyanide of sodium in the other.

Michael Osborne is the best witness that has ever appeared in a court. You men know that he was telling the truth when he said that Wohlgemuth made no mention of cats in asking for the poison. There is a good reason why the statute 1d in this court. Blood is thicker than water. There is no reason for every other witness lying. It didn't help the accused man and it might have hurt another."

District Attorney Pelletier's closing address to the jury was preceded by that of Daniel J. Daley, attorney for Wohlgemuth. Daly said in part:

DALEY'S CLOSING ARGUMENT.

"You have been told by the district attorney that the jury did not have the final say. I tell you that the jury has full power.

"Nobody can change your verdict if it is 'not guilty.'

"The motion resolves itself into this: Did Mary Wohlgemuth take the poison herself or did Frank Wohlgemuth give it to her? The case would have ended the day before yesterday if it had not been for the trinity of witnesses—those ladies secured by the district attorney, who tried to blacken the character of Frank Wohlgemuth. Their important piece of evidence resolved itself into that given by Mrs. Neeves or Susa, by whichever name you choose to call her, to the effect that Frank Wohlgemuth mixed two doses of salts, took one himself and gave one to the other.

STORY "RIDICULOUS."

"This is ridiculous, because if he did such a thing and were a deliberate murderer he would have been foolish to make such a statement. If Mary Neeves told the truth, then little Ethel, that little dear, is a liar. The day of her father's arrest she was taken away by Mr. Pelletier and has never been under the influence of the defence.

"I therefore ask you carefully to weigh her testimony, which was that her father was sitting reading a paper at the table, and Mary Wohlgemuth was mixing the fatal dose.

"Corporal Tennessey also quotes Wohlgemuth to this effect. I ask you, Mr. Pelletier, to tell the jury what you are going to do with little Ethel.

"You gentlemen must remember that to prove murder premeditation and malice aforethought have to be shown. Did Frank Wohlgemuth plan this thing? Was there any malice? If there had been any malice between the couple it would have been produced before the evidence of the sisters, not through that trinity of ladies brought in to testify by the district attorney. We have shown there was no malice up to the date of Mary Wohlgemuth's death.

"Gentlemen of the jury, you are asked to consider carefully only the important evidence in this case and to eliminate all the others. We are not trying morals case. It is not a question whether Frank Wohlgemuth had another woman. A man may tell just as straight a story if he has a wife and two or three other women. I don't condone the morals of Frank Wohlgemuth. It is unfortunate that they do not measure up to the standards we desire, but that is not the question we are trying."

Fined for False Scales

Aghar Tutunjian was fined $20 in Dorchester court today for having false scales at his store, No. 11 Hancock street.

VICE-PRESIDENT URGES 'PEACE PATRIOTISM'

"Country Needs a Rebaptism of Americanism" to Curb Industrial Ills, Says Marshall

Washington, Oct. 24.—Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall prepared for the American the following statement on the existing conflict between capital and labor as reflected by the failure of the industrial conference groups to agree:

By VICE-PRESIDENT MARSHALL.

"Just as long as capital and labor stand and glare at each other, no man expect everlasting peace. It is a builder while exists.

"No legislative remedy, real or false, can be found to produce peace and quietude and good order unless the manufacturer sees fit to increase the dividends and long upon the employes as brothers in the republic and not as cogs in the machine of manufacture or as a payroll.

"The troopers of the United States is a kind of doctor that treats symptoms and doesn't treat disease.

"And one thing the working men have some higher incentive to do their work than the mere wage which comes from the doing of it. If they get in their time thinking how little they can do and how much more they can get for the doing of it, it is hopeless from thrift standpoint.

"It is no part of government to boost one man and to bust another.

"The elimination of the mad passions of men are to hammer at legislative dails for their final and just settlements. A government of discretion dies.

"The only government in business life that can hope to live is a government of love and compassion.

"What the economic life of America needs is not a lawgiver, but an evangelist.

REBAPTISM OF PEACE NEEDED.

"The country needs a rebaptism of peace patriotism such as it had of war patriotism.

"There never will be perfect justice in the world until the lion and the lamb can lie down together and eat hay, and they bring with the lamb inside of the lion.

"But now we need a body of citizens who are content to do a day's work for a day's wage, who are willing to give a day's work for a day's work, who believes more in the craftsmen good than in the larger good.

"Since the world began, labor and wealth have had no such opportunity for the Angel of the Lord to write their names down beside that of Aban Ben Adhem as they have had just now.

"The trumpet call of conscience is not only to the weak and lowly, but to the high and mighty, and my dividends and wages are measurably forgotten in the face of the crisis that confronts the country. If there is any hope at all passion, personal preferment and personal advantage must be put to one side. The ground and the capitalists and the laborers must realize that the consumer is the third party to the dispute, the third brotherhood, and business must be conducted with a view to the public primarily for the love of promoting a contented and happy people.

DIVIDENDS SECONDARY.

"Dividends and wages must be secondary. This is a problem for solution by men who believe in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

"It calls on every man of every creed to solve it, not for one person, not for one class, but in the interests of the whole people.

"It is not to be hoped that soon again the Nazarene shall walk through field and factory, through palace and hovel, leaving behind Him the healing touch which will solve every great problem, the healing influence of His golden rule.

"There is no other or any alleviating measure for the time that would adjust these troubles, but I have no doubt that the proposed settlement of these difficulties. This offers no cure and I only say in the hope that men of every creed may realize how futile has been the attempt to do it, and how imagined that we could go to church on Sunday and love God whom we have not seen, and hate our fellowmen whom we have seen."

FISH BUYERS PAID FOR CARDBOARD ON SCALES

A piece of cardboard weighing several ounces was used by Ambrose De Silva, a fish dealer at No. 96 B street, South Boston, to steal his customers, it was charged in the South Boston court today. SLAIN LOWELL WOMAN'S SHOE IS FOUND

Police Fix Time of Killing as Between 6:25 and 6:55 O'Clock Sunday Morning

Lowell, Oct. 24.—The police investigating the mysterious death of Mrs. Mary Farfuka whose nude body was found in the woods at Dracut last Sunday, have succeeded in placing the time of the crime between 6:25 and 6:55 a. m.

The only other new development in the case is the finding of one of the dead woman's shoes near the scene of the crime. It has developed that Charles H. Cutler, the farmer from whom Mrs. Farfuka received her daily supply of milk for her children, was the last person to see the unfortunate mother and mill worker alive.

Cutler, under examination by the police, asserted that Mrs. Farfuka came to the barn at about at 6:15 on the morning she was murdered, and that after giving her milk, he watched her as she walked homeward.

Cutler placed the time that he saw her disappear from his view at 6:15. The police, requiring this fact to establish that Mrs. Farfuka did not her assailant prior to the arrival of the 6:55 car, have narrowed the exact time of the crime to within thirty minutes.

Police officers stated that the crime was probably committed somewhere between Wiggins Corner and the Lowell city line, a distance of three-quarters of a mile from the place he saw her last.

It appears that Mrs. Farfuka left no will. She was frequently expressed a desire that her husband, Alphonse Farfuka, be appointed guardian of her infant, about five, Edmund and a Lowell week. Mr. Farfuka's desire will be satisfied, the children being the lawful heirs.

RICHARD H. LONG Will be elected GOVERNOR

Calvin Coolidge is a defeated man

His administration has been weak as a baby rattle. His party in distress avoids discussing the business questions on trial. Its candidate for governor, Mr. Cox, is thoroughly familiar with them. Lawrence, and what is more important, Haverhill, Fall River, New Bedford and Worcester are overwhelmingly in favor of Democratic municipal administrations. Democratic ideals, principles and methods are in full control in the cities of Cambridge, Somerville, Chelsea, Medford, Everett, Waltham, Newton, Brookline, Quincy, Malden and Revere. Democratic boards of public works are managed by J. F. Liggett, the President of the United States, Mr. Cox's friend; by Mr. Cox's friend, Mr. Storrow, for the Boston police force, and Herbert Parker, the well-known Republican, for the Metropolitan District Commission. Democrats followed, breaking shame and disgrace in Boston and Massachusetts politics by the strike of the police.

Coolidge newspapers report that Governors from the West are coming to Boston to help him. Democrats will resent outside interference in a state campaign.

Democrats will point out that the income holders to pay their share of the taxes and build up Massachusetts. Democrats will point out that Coolidge has no business expending one billion two hundred million dollars annually.

A graduated income tax will relieve the poor man. Democrats will point out that the water power, and owned and controlled by the people.

The State will own and operate the street railways as fine ones in Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati and Buffalo. Democrats will point out that fares at 5 cents or less will be possible.

Democrats will point out that the present car fares are paid by the workingmen, and that they are entitled to the benefits of the increased values caused by good roads and car lines paid for by the people.

A blind man, who is a Democrat, says the man will be provided. Democrats will point out that he is entitled to Massachusetts.

there will be contentment and prosperity.

HOOD OFFERS SOLUTION FOR ENDING "WAR" OF CAPITAL AND LABOR

The results of a large employer of labor's studies of the problems of capital and labor, and the manufacturer's view on the labor conditions of the country were discussed by Frederic C. Hood, of the Hood Rubber Company, at the final gathering of the fourth annual meeting of the Associated Industries at the Copley-Plaza today.

He spoke on "The Employment Relation," and discussed not only the theory but the practices of both capital and labor, and the problems of both. He said in part:

"The employment relation begins when a contract is entered into between two parties, one party agreeing to give certain compensation to the other party for certain service agreed to be rendered.

"The employment relation may vary in duration from days, depending on the nature of the contract made, but we must always remember that the fundamental basis of this relation is a contractual relation which is voluntarily entered into by both parties.

"Therefore, the success of the employment relation depends upon the good sense and the good faith of both parties in the carrying out of their voluntary agreement.

WOULD APPLY GOLDEN RULE.

"Cordial employment relations may be developed and continued by the free application of the golden rule by both sides.

"Any fair-minded employe respects firmness in his employer, if the employer is just and fair. Mere wages will not bring cordial relations any more than mere money brings happiness. A dog is the only true friend one can buy.

"The moral obligations of the employer is greater than the moral obligations of the employe for beyond responsibility increases in proportion to the opportunity for influence by control or the example that one person can exert upon the lives of others.

"It is a well-known fact that the employer keeps the employment agreements better than the employe, one reason being that he is financially responsible and can be made to keep them, but another reason being he appreciates the value of establishing his credit and the value of moral responsibility as well as his legal and financial responsibility.

"The basis of the employment relation for those persons who are charged with public safety and welfare should be enlistment, the same as the soldier enlists. It is un-American that any group of employes created for the enforcement of laws can have the right to strike or the right to quit work simultaneously.

"The rules or conditions of enlistment should be clear and definite and any leaving of work without permission should be considered desertion with suitable penalties.

"It is un-American that such a group of employes can form unions affiliated with any trade union federation, for such affiliation would give them two masters, which the Good Book says a man cannot serve.

POLICE SITUATION.

"But, in order that they shall have proper treatment and the rules of employment and wages be made proper, there might be constituted a series of courts, presided over by judges appointed for life, whose duties shall be similar to any other court—to settle disputes. That is, if we have a difference with other individuals, we have laws and a court established to settle that difference, and there should be some court of this kind established to decide the various problems arising out of government employment.

"Referring to our police problems, some of us have wondered why all the police of every city in this State should not be put under one State board, which shall appoint its police commissioner for the whole State. The temptations for local politicians to have political friends appointed, and the financial temptations to policemen, and the whole police problem of cities and towns might be better solved by a State organization and would give more elasticity in emergencies.

"Each community could be placed under an assistant to the State Police Commissioner, who should be appointed for his fitness and training rather than for political considerations.

"An executive manager should never be a political appointee, but should be selected by the board of trustees, or the board of directors, in the same way that the Board of Education in Massachusetts should select its commissioner of education, and in the same way that I believe is the most efficient way of running a city or town, namely, that the Mayor should be hired and not elected. Executives that are elected are seldom elected for their managerial ability, but more often are elected for their practical or political ability.

WOULD PUNISH STRIKERS.

"The employes of public utilities also should not have the right to strike or quit simultaneously, but conditions arising out of the employment should be regulated as to rates of wages and perhaps of hours, but not as to discipline by the same governmental board of commission which regulates the particular corporation.

"It is un-American in this republic of ours that the health and welfare of a community can be made miserable by the actions of any group of persons employed in a public utility on which the community is dependent.

"Strikes in a public utility should also be made a penal offence.

"When the Mayor of New York is threatened in the performance of his duties by a spirit of socialism, it is high time that the ninety-seven per cent. of the population who do not belong to labor unions arise in their wrath and show who runs this country.

"Private industry is created by a contribution to the enterprise of capital, which is the savings out of previous earnings. The management of private industry is created by the representatives of the capital securing the services of competent persons to manage the enterprise. The employment relation is created by a contract for services agreed to be rendered for a compensation agreed to be paid.

"We must get it out of the minds of the public that there is any social class of employer and employe, for a person only becomes an employer or an employe by entering into a contract of buying and selling service.

"Any person may become an employe by entering the service of another person or corporation or group of persons. Any person may become an employer by contracting for the services of any other person. I am an employe of the directors of my company. I am an employer of other persons. A good definition of a manager is a man who is both an employe and an employer.

"It is one of the first duties of an employer to care for the health, comfort and welfare of his employes.

"The so-called labor cost in an industry varies from 20 per cent. to 70 per cent. Should not a general manager be willing to know that the wages paid are fair.

"No man can serve two masters. The pay envelope should demonstrate to him that faithfulness, loyalty and productivity are rewarded, and that disloyalty, faithlessness and slackness are not. It is not the labor union I object to, but their uneconomic principles, the misleaders, their financial methods, and their financial irresponsibility.

UNION BECOMING COMMERCE.

"While the laborer as a human being is not a commodity, if we remember, industry produces the article and commerce trades in it, some of us feel that the labor union is fast becoming commerce instead of industry, for it seems to have as its chief object, not production, but to give as little as it can for the highest price it can get, which is commerce—and a very low scale of commerce at that.

"Who is the greater profiteer, the man who tries to get something for nothing, who tries to get a price too high over his cost, or is it the man who preaches destruction and condemns the producer in order that he may buy the articles at less than cost? Both try to get something for nothing. Only a few gentlemen can stay long in the gold brick business.

Profit sharing is suggested by many well-meaning men as a panacea for industrial unrest.

"Henry Endicott says as to the matter of profit sharing, 'All proposed plans of profit sharing do not appeal to me. From my study of them and experience with them, I do not think they work. There is no getting away from the fact that most profit sharing plans are based on the hope that men can thus be hired more cheaply than they would under ordinary conditions. It is a bait to catch the eye of the unthinking.' He gives the debit or credit of his own profit-sharing scheme to his partner, Mr. Johnson.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

"The phrase, 'collective bargaining,' is one of the illustrations of the old saying that language is used to deceive the thought,' for the adoption of pat phrases and titles seems to be the latest development of indoor sports.

"Collective bargaining in trades union parlance means nothing more or less than a deliberate step to a closed union shop."

Silk Waists

Seem like a tremendous number; well, it is. But it is about the quantity Chandler & Co. must carry to give a proper assortment, now at the very beginning of the great waist season of the year. There are hundreds and hundreds of waists at seven dollars and a half to ten dollars—hundreds and hundreds at twelve dollars and a half to fifteen dollars—hundreds and hundreds at eighteen dollars to twenty-seven dollars and a half, and so on, fifty dollars to ninety-five dollars. This of course represents great purchasing, which means the lowest prices possible. It means the important fact of all sizes; it means the very latest thing in waists and blouses for both women and misses. Right now is the beginning of the great waist season and fifty thousand dollars' worth of silk waists means a great opening.

Think of it! There are hundreds, yes, thousands of the latest models, in all the newest styles, from the simply trimmed waists up to the elaborate ones with beautiful, real laces. Hundreds of tailored and semi-tailored effects; wonderfully beautiful waists for afternoon; charming waists for dinner or theatre, with length of sleeve anywhere from top of shoulder down to the wrist. They say that the Paris designers have given great attention to the new features of dresses. We know that they have developed some of the most charming models in waists ever produced—especially those in Georgette. And why not? Georgette in a waist is becoming, no matter in what manner it is made up; no material takes such soft, delicate colors. And then there are the tailored Satin and Crepe de Chine Waists, and, in addition, many charming net waists.

No wonder we are proud to announce in big type that we are now prepared to show 3,500 Silk Waists

Misses' Dresses and Coats
IN OUR GRAY SHOPS—SECOND FLOOR

A bond of necessity unites the one-piece dress and the coat. The result is utility.

Misses' Dresses of Poiret Twill, $30

In countless telling ways the tunic effect is employed, often in a sidewise piquant air, often with the accompaniment of sash girdles. The skirt length agrees with the Parisian designers; and the little flare is significant of the trend of fashion.

Misses' Coats of Polo Velours, $55

This is a coat year—street coats, sport coats and evening coats. They all prove their versatile usefulness by being built for all-round service as well as for beauty. In the model sketched good tailoring is the first verdict, shown by the smart stitchings and the superimposed straps and buttons. Other good points are the high, snug and becoming collar, the belt and the gay, soft, pussy willow lining. And last because it is really first—the material is high grade madura velours.

SAYS BELGIUM NEEDS TWENTY YEAR CREDITS

Delegate Astonishes Trade Conference; Europe's Coal Demands Announced

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 24.—Albert E. Janssen of the Belgian Mission caused surprise at today's session of the International Trade Conference, when he declared that Belgium must have credits of from ten to twenty years' maturity.

The Belgian committee on credit and finance had previously informed the corresponding delegates from the United States that Belgium would need credits of only two and one-half years' maturity. No explanation was given of the sudden change of the Belgian request.

M. Janssen told the conference that since the signing of the armistice Belgium had already contracted an external debt of $260,000,000. He said that owing to the increased salaries of government employes the annual budget must be increased $100,000,000.

"NO LASTING SOLUTION."

Norman H. Davis, president of the Cuban Trust Company of New York, told the conference that no sound or lasting solution of after-war problems could be based upon governmental credits. He said that the re-establishment of international trade upon private credit was the only solution, and that in his opinion the productive capacity of the United States, added to the productive capacity of Europe, would suffice to supply world needs in credit and commodities as fast as the world is prepared to use them.

Sir James Hope Simpson of England, Domenico Ghidoni of the Italian Treasury, and F. O. Watts, president of the Third National Bank of St. Louis, also addressed the delegates.

That the United States, barring a strike, can supply the needs of interallied nations for coal was the report of the coal committee. No suggestion was made in the report of what could be done in the event of a strike.

EUROPEAN COAL NEEDS.

More than twenty-two million tons of bituminous coal must be furnished by the United States for France during the coming year, the committee reported.

Italy, it reported, would need "several" million tons annually. The Italian delegation dwelt on the importance of developing a permanent coal trade between their country and the United States.

No important purchases of coal in the United States by Belgium may be expected the committee reported, owing to the present prices of American coal delivered in Belgium and the shipping difficulties.

The conference developed that there was no European demand for anthracite.

The committee reported unanimously that the task of supplying the allies with sufficient coal could best be handled by private interests without restriction or interference from the governments involved.

SHEPARD GETS YEAR IN MARRIAGE MIXUP

Frank J. Shepard, claimed by two women as their husband, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction for making a false statement in a marriage application when arraigned before Judge Sullivan of the Municipal Court today. Wife No. 2 was arrested on a charge of violating the true name law by living with Shepard as "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bush." Wife No. 1 is ill in the City Hospital. Investigation showed that Shepard was legally married to the first woman and that last week he married Helen Tobani, daughter of Theodore Tobani of Long Island City, a widely known song composer. Wife No. 1 followed them here, but Shepard refused to have anything to do with her.

KAISER ANGERED BY COMING OF GERARD

Held Bernstorff Responsible, Says Former Ambassador, Before War Guilt Board

By International News Service.

Berlin, Oct. 23. (Delayed)—Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, continuing his testimony today before the war guilt commission, declared that in May, 1917, General Ludendorff made the statement at German great headquarters that he had positive information that England could "hold out only three months longer."

Von Bernstorff said he had been called to German great headquarters for a conference.

After certain conversation in which the former diplomat pointed out that he had been asked from Germany to make peace through the United States if possible, he testified that Ludendorff said:

"We do not want that now. We will finish the war within three months with our U-boats."

That the ex-Kaiser was cool towards Von Bernstorff upon his return from the United States was indicated by the fact that nearly two months elapsed before the former ambassador got an interview with Wilhelm. In answer to various questions the former ambassador said:

"The Kaiser told me that he considered me responsible that a man like James W. Gerard became the American ambassador to Germany."

Von Bernstorff declared under oath that the trunk of documents seized on his ship at Halifax had been taken on board without his knowledge.

The testimony relating to conversations at German great headquarters emphasized the fatal miscalculations of the German war lords as to the length of time it would take the United States to get into the war with her full military strength.

$40,191 RAISED FOR RELIEF OF JEWS

Pawnbrokers' Team Wins the Booby; Vorenberg Cautions Against Over-Confidence

That the workers in the $400,000 campaign of the Federated Jewish Charities of Boston must, in order to oversubscribe the amount sought, approach the middle class as well as the wealthy, was the keynote of a brief address of Louis E. Kirstein, campaign director, at the third of a series of campaign luncheons at the City Club.

The pledges reported by the various teams total $40,191, the result of the efforts of a day and a half, which brings up the amount subscribed since the launching of the campaign to $262,191. The workers canvassing under the supervision of Joseph M. Herman, who himself contributed $10,000 to the fund, reported for the shoe and leather trade the amount of $18,000.

AWARDED BOOBY PRIZE.

Their report indicated that some of the givers had increased their subscriptions to ten times the amounts they donated two years ago when a similar campaign was conducted upon the arrival in this city of Dr. Morris D. Waldman, as executive director of the charities. They were awarded the first prize. The booby prize was given to the pawnbrokers' team which recorded a gain of $300 only.

Felix Vorenberg warned the workers against being over-confident. He calling attention to the fact that some of the other drives that have been conducted in the past by different organizations failed simply because the people in charge were too confident in the opening days.

Mr. Vorenberg said that as he was leaving his store a young woman stepped up to him, handed him an envelope with the request that he accept it in behlaf of the fund. She was not a Jewess, but desired to assist the Federated Jewish charities, the worth of which she knew. In the envelope he found $25 in bills.

POOR WOMAN'S DONATION.

A poorly dressed woman called on Mr. Vorenberg and handed him an envelope for the fund. He said that her circumstances appeared to be such that he hesitated about accepting it, but she urged him to turn it into the fund. Her gift was $5, which she said it had taken her ten days to save from her earnings.

The committees and amounts which they reported follow:

Cigars and tobacco, $1,595; hardware, $1,665; junk dealers, $2,465; pawnbrokers, $230; men's and women's apparel, $4,305; leather and shoes, $18,000; millinery, $570; wool, $4,275; wool waste, $2,070; furniture, $1,270; graphic arts, $255; woolens, $1,090; druggists, $400; men's furnishings, $1,065; florists, $6,670; jewellers, $1,885; doctors, $1,043; attorneys, $1,315; real estate, $3,225; insurance, $665; dentists, $448.

There will be a luncheon this afternoon when further reports will be made by the various trade committees. Two prizes will be awarded to the teams bringing in the largest number of new subscriptions.

WORK NIGHT AND DAY TO SAVE IMPRISONED MINER

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 24—Fifty miners are working night and day in an effort to extricate L. G. Gillian, a six-year-old miner, from a shaft in which he was cut off by tons of rock in a cave-in at the Peacock mine at Bridger, Mo. His companions have been digging steadily for twenty-four hours.

TEACHERS' FUND OF $4,000,000 IN EFFECT

Bill Becomes Law and Allotments to Cities and Towns Will Be Made

The $4,000,000 State school fund law, including a minimum wage of $650 for elementary school teachers, became effective today.

The law provides that $4,000,000 shall become available from income taxes and distributed among the poorer communities of the State "for the purpose of equalizing educational opportunities."

A campaign to defeat the law by referendum petitions was started, but when the time for filing the petition expired yesterday the Secretary of State announced that only 1,200 of the required 15,000 signatures necessary had been obtained.

The State Board of Education today began sending out to the cities and towns requests for information on which will be based the allotment of funds to each community.

CONNECTICUT DOESN'T WANT GERMAN HOWITZER

Complaint reached army headquarters that the Howitzer on Boston Common, captured from the Germans at Epieds, was being neglected and ought to be put under cover, to be kept from the ravages of the east wind of Boston. Captain Lloyd E. Jennings of Meriden, Ct., who was in conference today with General C. R. Edwards, was asked if Connecticut would like the gun as it was reputed to be captured by the boys from his State. "No, sir; we don't want the gun," said the captain. "We don't want anything down there that reminds of the Hun. We want something American in our State."

ARREST TWO ON CHARGE OF FORGERY

Police Believe Man and Girl in Custody Are Leaders of Mail Box Thieves

L. Lincoln Gardner, twenty-five, of Stemmway street, Back Bay, and Irene Fitzgerald, nineteen, of Astor street, were arrested, charged with forgery and uttering checks on the Old Colony, Hanover, Prudential and State Street Trust Companies.

The police believe that they are members of an organized band of mail box thieves who have been operating here and in New York.

The woman, it is alleged by the police, worked a unique plan. Obtaining a position in the Saratoga Lunchroom, they say, she eventually persuaded her employer to give her a written recommendation. Later, his signature, it is alleged by the police, appeared as endorsement on several checks, most of which had been stolen from mail boxes in the Back Bay district. One check stolen in New York, was cashed in this city. One of the checks, made out to M. Forlani, a musician in the Symphony Orchestra, apparently for services with that organization, appeared among the number. The amounts on several checks ranged from $50 to $110.

The police believe that the system of disposing of the checks was through open bank accounts with a little cash, later depositing the checks, and then withdrawing the entire deposits.

The arrests of Gardner and the Fitzgerald girl were made by Inspectors Dorsey and Haggerty. The police are on the trail of several others who are believed to be connected with the band.

HELD FOR RECEIVING GOODS ALLEGED STOLEN

Jacobs of Fordham road, Jamaica Plain, for which charges of breaking and entering are pending against Daniel C. Ryan.

PROTEST 3-DECKERS IN FANEUIL DISTRICT

The Faneuil Improvement Association, whose Harry Peters today (in behalf of extension of the fire limits to the Faneuil section of Wards 25 and 26, in order to prevent the building of any more three-deckers there) wants also the Newton town line, and according to Secretary Warren E. The Mayor referred the communication to the Building Commissioner and the assessors for a report.

BRITISH PASTOR DEMANDS 'DRYS' BE BANISHED

Joins in Baiting "Pussyfooters" and Defends Use of Alcoholic Drinks

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 24.—"Man cannot exist on mere food alone," is the broadside in support of alcoholic drink fired by Rev. H. D. Warmsford, in his harvest festival sermon at St. Pinnock, Bath.

Railing the so-called "pussyfooters," the American exponents of prohibition, has become a favorite pastime in Britain, but the Foxley minister makes the most sensational plea yet heard.

"God has given us water and also the instinct to flavor and add body to it so that the various tastes that are found among men can be satisfied," he declared.

"Wine was given to make the heart of man glad, and by that word wine I infer anything with a strength that is above that of plain water. God has given us variety and our tastes as individuals vary.

"Some like water and others like something with more body in it from the natural beverage up to that nectar of the gods, the regal champagne, all of these alike gifts of God.

"It is enough to provoke national wrath that men should come and are still coming from over the water to try to force upon us measures which in themselves are decidedly flashy.

"Let 'Jonathan' make quick use of his return ticket. Men who would come and try to banish one of God's good gifts from our inland had better be given a week's notice to clear."

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop immediately and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

HARVARD FUND PASSES 50 P. C. MARK

Boston Solicitors Fall Below Daily Average; Deny Money Is Held Back

The Harvard Endowment Fund has not quite reached the half-way mark, according to reports received from all sources, although the final committee is satisfied that sufficient funds are in the various collecting banks throughout the country to bring the total well above $7,625,000, or 50 per cent. of $15,250,000, the goal of the campaign.

The solicitors in the outside cities were more successful lately securing funds than were those in either Boston or New York. Locally the day was the leanest in nearly two weeks, while New York fell far below its daily average. The result was that the day closed with 49.7 per cent. of the fund in hand.

The local committee is seeking to counteract an impression that the fund has been underwritten, and that many subscriptions or contributions are being held back. Members of the committee stated emphatically that every cent contributed, subscribed, or even pledged, has been credited to the fund and made public, and that no promises direct or implied have been made by any person to make good any deficit.

Another rumor which the committee contradicted was that contributions were not being welcomed from women, or that because the male member of the family had sent a check to the fund, the women members were excluded from being identified with the movement.

WOMAN FIGHTS PROPOSAL TO CUT COMMON

One of Organizers of Common Society Makes Strong Protest to the Mayor

Mrs. James B. Brown of No. 39 Pinckney street, one of the organizers of the Boston Common Society, and defender of that historic spot for many years, has informed Mayor Peters that Boston will soon lose interest in its historic treasures, if everything has to give way to commercial demands.

She thinks the proposed encroachment upon the Common is but the beginning of other concessions to demands to make way for business.

"I shall fight this slicing of any part of the Common as long as my life will allow me," declared Mrs. Brown.

"I want to be reasonable in my demands. I am taking this position because I am a true Bostonian, and also a true American. This spot was bequeathed for the purpose of being a Common for all people forever. It is a common recreation ground. It is an outlet for the mothers of the West End, and I am sure if the mothers were massed together they would cry out with the rest of us, 'spare the Common' for they need every inch of this place for their summer fresh air.

DENOUNCES STANDING AUTOS.

"I am told that that congestion on Tremont, Park and Boylston streets is getting to be a menace to the city during business hours. I think there is congestion on these streets. But why should so many automobiles be allowed to be parked on these thoroughfares?

"I do not believe an automobile should be allowed to stand more than ten minutes on any of these street. It is really the automobile standing that makes in a great measure the congestion that we are deploring.

"Then we have centralized Boston retail trade around the Common when it ought to have expanded up Washington, Tremont and Boylston streets. There are buildings lying idle on Washington street today because we have localized the retail business in a small area around these streets.

COMMON SACRED GROUND.

"Why have so many business firms centred in a small area of this city? Why not expand the retail business of this city and let it stretch itself to other veins of this city?

"The Boston Common is sacred ground. It is a breathing place so often praised by people who come from other cities, saying we have an ideal city because we have a park, right in the heart of the business centre.

"Don't let us commercialize everything. Let us think of something else besides making money. The will of Mr. Parkman left money to look after this spot, and to have the hands of trade laid upon it, is not only a disgrace but it is downright tyranny on the part of people, who cannot think in any other terms but those of dollars and cents.

"Thank goodness I have some sentiment left.

"I want this Common preserved and kept from being sliced, because it is welcomed by the mothers of the West End. We owe something to the West End. We are not going to bow down and worship the golden calf of commercialism and let the families of the West End spend their summers in hot tenements. The reply is made, 'there is only a small slice of the Common to be taken.' But you give these same people an inch now and it will not be long before they will be clamoring for a mile.

"Push your trade away from the Common. Take your standing automobiles away from the streets adjoining the Common.

"Keep this place for a breathing spot and let city planning still continue to point to Boston Common as one of the ideal spots in a modern city."

Mrs. Brown reports that the West End people will soon hold a mass meeting and protest against any part of the Common being taken for traffic.

BEAUTY BRINGS SUIT AGAINST BROKER

Named in Alienation Case, Woman Says She Was Promised Business Interest

Pittsfield, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Mabel Levenson, the handsome young woman who figures in the $7,500 alienation of affection suit brought by her husband, Morris Levenson of New York, against Rayon and Terry, a Summer resident of Great Barrington, which is to be tried in the Superior Court here Tuesday, has started a suit in New York against Terry, claiming she is entitled to a large interest in his brokerage business, as the result of an agreement into which they entered.

The real reason for the postponement of the alienation of affection suit which was set for trial this week has just become known. The plaintiff's counsel claims Mrs. Levenson is too ill to come to Pittsfield and in fact too ill to be questioned on the preparation of a deposition. She is a main factor in the case and neither party desires to proceed without her presence.

Mr. Levenson, the plaintiff in the case, is head of the Levenson Wrecking Company.

Depositions in connection with the $75,000 case will be taken in New York Saturday.

The defendant claims he will show that his sister, with whom he made his home in Great Barrington, invited Mrs. Levenson, who posed as a Miss Thomas, to visit at the Great Barrington villa, as the result of which visit the husband appeared and created a scene.

All these facts are in Federal archives at Washington along with countless others which prove the brazen activities and astounding organization of the Germans in this country during the war. The blowing up of ammunition factories and other buildings were all part of the German military activities in this country. When Werner Horne attempted to blow up the international bridge at Vanceboro, Me., by laying a dress-suit case full of dynamite on the trestle, many skeptics considered him nothing but a crank.

Those who talked with Horne and others associated with him were relieved from the outset, from his manner and soldierly bearing that he was a German officer. At a federal court in Moncton, N. B. Wednesday Horne stood up and admitted that he was a captain in the German army and had been assigned to destroy that bridge over which the Canadians and British were transporting troops and war supplies and munitions.

If it hadn't been 25 below zero, so cold that Horne's face and hands were frozen, he might have accomplished his purpose. But as it was, scant damage was done, and he was too cold to escape on foot as he had planned.

If the German military lords overseas included the international bridge at Vanceboro in their war plotting, it is reasonable to deduct that a system of military signal lights from mountains in New England, visible to U-boats that would prowl at will in the darkness with little fear of detection, was also part of their military machinations in this country.

Monadnock Mountain is famous among mariners approaching the New England coast because it is the first land visible under the glass. Monadnock is also within easy vision to the naked eye of Wachusett Mountain in Massachusetts, which flares and colored flash lights attached to captive balloons could be hastily revealed. Some of the lights used in the New Hampshire mountains that range around the Dean home were so powerful as to be seen 50 miles away. Country folks first mistook them for heat lightning, but later discovered what they really were.

Such lights as these flashed from mountain peak to mountain peak, and, when occasion demanded, relayed to points along Cape Cod on the south and Maine to the north, were easily visible to the German sea wolves lurking off shore under the convenient mantle of night.

The Federal records show that suspicious lights were sighted at various points along Cape Cod and the New Hampshire and Maine coasts. The signals in the vicinity of East Jaffrey and Dublin, N. H., where many persons of German blood and pro-German sympathies reside, were complained of persistently that squads of soldiers and plain clothes men hunted for them right after night without making a capture.

But those who took part in these nocturnal hunts were satisfied beyond any doubt that the signals were operated for the benefit of the enemy. Another significant fact is that Department of Justice agents were sent to that region on the strength of very plausible complaints lodged many months before Dr. Dean was killed.

Miss Mary Lee Ware of the Back Bay, with a Summer home at East Jaffrey, was one concerned about these lights that she spent much of her time and money investigating them with the aid of private detectives. Her lawyer wrote a lengthy report concerning them. Mrs. Morrison, another society woman of Boston, also devoted much time to ferreting out German activities in that section, prompted like Miss Ware and Dr. Dean and all other loyal Americans solely by a spirit of patriotism to protect the lives of our troops in transportation.

Mrs. Benjamin L. Robinson of Cambridge, wife of a Harvard professor, was another of the Summer colony who early discovered the anti-American activities. Some of these women were shadowed every place they went for a long time and they were really concerned. One is known to have engaged a man in her premises who was virtually a bodyguard.

HUNTED FOR SIGNALERS.

These are all cultured women and there are many other men and women equally intelligent in that section who saw the lights week in and week out and who were satisfied as to their purpose. Persons of this standing are not apt to bother their heads about creatures of fancy. It took something real and sinister to arouse them to the pitch which they found themselves while our troops overseas were fighting the decisive battles of the world war.

As these series of articles continue witnesses will be quoted who hunted signal lights many nights on foot or on horseback and in automobiles. Some of the more indigent and courageous Americans in that region lay out all night in the bushes in spots where active signals had been seen on previous nights, but the conspirators apparently had trained sentries in ambush and they were known to have had dogs posted who gave the alarm.

On one occasion agents of the Army Intelligence from Camp Devens saw three men with a portable light of high power, but before they could surround them they escaped in a fast automobile.

Those who took part in the signal stalking report that automobiles were seen in lonely sections of the mountains with two rear lights as powerful as the ordinary headlight. These lights were used as signals by covering them with colored disks of red, blue and green. It is suspected, but has not been established by direct evidence, that distances and wireless apparatus were conveyed from point to point in automobiles.

This would account for the difficulty in detecting any of the crew that operated these lights. It is a fact borne out by records that many of the sailors from the interned German steamships in Boston and other New England ports obtained positions in the vicinity of East Jaffrey, Dublin and Peterboro as farm hands, builders and chauffeurs. All of these sailors from the German interned ships were members of the German naval reserve and highly-trained men.

They would form a working nucleus for operating military signals and they would have sufficient skill and daring. A number of them in addition is known to have had among its crew the editor-in-chief and the subeditor of an inflammatory newspaper in Fitchburg, Mass., which was suppressed by the United States authorities.

Professional men and women and town officials in East Jaffrey, Peterboro, Dublin and other adjoining communities not only saw lights, but they heard automobiles of high power and with engines that made very little noise pass at certain hours nightly. An automobile painted battleship gray was seen a great many times.

WOVEN INTO TRAGEDY.

So there is no difficulty in shaping a fabric into which the suspicious signal lights of the hills are woven automatically with the Dean tragedy.

Returning to the submarine activities off the coast there is a federal record of the capture of a little coaster laden with stone which left Rockport, Mass., and which was pounced upon by a German U-boat just outside the book at Provincetown. The captain and his wife were taken into the submarine while the schooner was made fast, and were subjected to a third degree by a German officer who spoke good English. The captain and his wife expressed surprise when they noticed a New York newspaper of recent date in the submarine.

"I mentioned it to the skipper of the submarine," said the captain of the Rockport coaster later when interviewed by army intelligence agents.

"He answered that if I was surprised at their having a recent New York paper, I would probably be more surprised to learn that he had attended a performance at a New York theatre a few nights previous and he proved his statement by showing me the seat checks."

The name of the captain and his wife are among the government records. If U-boats were lurking that close to New York, convenient enough to permit their officers to mingle with persons on shore and pick up information, and if they came close enough virtually to bombard the Massachusetts coast, why should anybody doubt the authenticity and the usefulness of military signal lights from the New Hampshire hills?

Lights from Monadnock would be of great importance to report activities on the naval base at Portsmouth. Answering lights were seen by those who went out nights in the underground wireless watch from the flashes from Monadnock, from Temple Mountain, and from Wachusett Mountain. Information gathered by spies in the New England district, which could not be trusted to the mail, telephone or telegraph, might be carried by automobile without the least fear of suspicion or detection and flashed by secret code from the heights in the vicinity of the Dean home.

There is evidence that mail was tampered with in that section, and that code messages were received over the telephone and telegraph. There is evidence also to show that persons of German descent or German sympathies visited Camp Devens at Ayer frequently, and that soldiers in American uniforms made return visits to East Jaffrey at night by auto.

The records of the Department of Justice are known to contain reference to great activity on the part of certain persons who traveled unusual mountain roads at all hours of the night in the saddle, and those records show, as government agents claimed, that some of the horses were rubber shod in the usefulness of military signal lights from the New Hampshire hills.

A woman whose husband was shadowed by government agents cultivated the acquaintance of a telephone operator, made lavish gifts and pleaded to be taught how to operate the country switchboard. It was thought, in the light of later developments, that she sought an opportunity to put across messages without the knowledge of the operator.

Such telephone calls as "Cook has left," "Cook very ill," a "Cook ailing" by persons who employed no cook were also regarded by officials as code messages on long distance calls to New York and other points.

MYSTERIOUS SUPPLIES.

A man who was under suspicion as a pro-German bought such large quantities of provisions and groceries at a country store that the suspicion developed that he must be feeding persons concealed in lonely mountain retreats.

This man bought several chickens, a ham and a strip of bacon almost daily over a long period and "had only a few others in the family. A local photographer was asked to develop films for post cards which contained groupings of Teddy-bears and a dog. There were many different assortments, and the fact that adults were interested in such cards aroused his suspicion long before the Dean murder.

On some of the exposures the dog would be in the centre and a white Teddy-bear on the left and a black one on the right, and on a pre-exposure of these films was the negative of an alarm clock scarcely discernible in the upper corner.

The hands on this clock pointed to different hours according to the shift in the groupings of the Teddy-bears and dogs. These cards are thought to have served as code messages. They created much comment and became more conspicuous during the developments that followed the murder of Dr. Dean, whose life will be discussed in tomorrow's instalment.

CONTINUED TOMORROW.

This is the house which crowns the high hill at East Jaffrey and which Dr. Dean let to a couple named Colfelt, said to be Germans. The doctor ordered them to leave the premises shortly before he was murdered, because, he is quoted, he "was too much an American to have them in his house."

CATARRH

Quickly Ended by a Pleasant, Healing Antiseptic Air. Just Breathe It

The little hard rubber Hyomei inhaler which you can get at any reliable druggist can easily be carried in pocket or purse. It will last a lifetime.

Into this inhaler you pour a few drops of the pure healing oil of Hyomei.

This oil is absorbed by the antiseptic made within, and now you are ready to breathe it in over the germ-infested membranes, where it will speedily begin its work of banishing catarrhal germs and ending Catarrh. Hyomei is made of Australian eucalyptus combined with other antiseptics and is very pleasant to breathe.

It is guaranteed to banish catarrh, sore throats, influenza, tonsilitis, sore throat, croup, coughs and colds or money back. It often clears out a stuffed-up head and opens clogged nostrils in two minutes.

Complete outfit, including inhaler and one bottle of Hyomei, costs but little; while extra bottles, if afterward needed, may be obtained at any druggist for a few cents.

Shops of Intimate Apparel

Third Floor

HALF a floor of shops filled with lovely intimate things—all showing the unmistakable touch of discriminating feminine taste. One scarcely needs to be told that women are the presiding geniuses—responsible for the good values one finds there. A few of the high spots are mentioned below.

1000 dainty nainsook chemises, $1

Two pretty styles sketched. Many other styles equally as good—some plain, others touched with embroidery or lace. Good values because the material is finer and the workmanship better than one usually finds in $1 chemises.

Night gowns equally good at $2

White and flesh pink gowns of silky nainsook. Some with whole bodices of lace—others simply trimmed with hemstitching or embroidery. Becoming round and square necks. $2.

Frilly taffeta negligees, $19.75

Pretty negligees of soft taffeta—graceful round collars—edged with tiny frills; frilly sleeves, pockets—and rows of small frills on bottom. Choose from peach, turquoise, pink, cerise, sapphire blue. $19.75.

Elastic-top corsets of pink coutil, $3.50

Excellent for the woman who likes a dainty, tightly boned corset. The coutil is very fine, and all bones are stitched at the bottom. Exquisitely trimmed with lace and satin. Sizes 20 to 26. $3.50.

Women's silk jersey and taffeta petticoats, $7.50

Every petticoat should have a silk jersey top—it's so smooth and adds nothing to the silhouette. Taffeta ruffles combine two harmonizing shades. $7.50.

Dress-like percale aprons, $1.55

Easy to slip into, as they open all the way down the back. Choose from pink designs in strong percale. $1.55.

Extra fine striped percale breakfast sets, consisting of a skirt and belted coat. $2.

Filene's

Here's some proof of the value-pudding!

FOR OUR own satisfaction the other day, we asked women who are good judges of values to compare Filene values with the best they could find in Boston. Their instructions were that we wanted criticism and not praise. This is what they told us:

—in 38 distinct instances, Filene prices were from five cents to ten cents less on small articles and from one dollar to ten dollars less on outer garments, for the nearest thing to Filene merchandise.

—in 7 instances, Filene merchandise was unique of its kind and nothing with which to compare it could be found.

—in 16 instances, these women reported they could buy something similar at the same price, but that Filene merchandise had some little feature which they would prefer, the price being the same.

—in 4 cases, they found something just as good in every way at the same price.

—in one case we were badly undersold and immediately reduced our price.

—in one case we were undersold one cent at a "sale."

—in 4 cases prices were found lower than ours but the merchandise was not as desirable.

—in one case we were undersold by five cents, but whereas we had three styles, the garment on which we were undersold came in but one style.

We have never seen better proof than this of Filene value giving. The values referred to were from every part of the Filene store, so that it makes but little difference what it is you need, or whether it is for man, woman or child, we believe and these facts show that Filene's has something definite in the way of BETTER STYLE and BETTER VALUE to give you. For instance:

Women's embroidered pure silk stockings, $1.65.

Rhinestone bar pins, $1.25.

Cigarette cases, silver-plated, thin model, $2.

Children's brown diagonal cheviot coats, 2 to 6 years $10.

Misses' hand-tailored velours and silvertone suits, $55.

Misses' all-wool brown plaid velours skirts, $12.75.

Misses' ribbon-trimmed Georgette waists, $7.50.

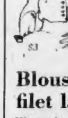
Misses' dark tan high boots, $9.50.

Women's organdy vestee and collar sets, $1.

Chiffon velvet handbags, $5.50.

Girls' warm kersey coats, 8 to 16 years $13.75.

A renaissance of women's Peter Pan blouses, $3



Sketched—A Peter Pan blouse of extra heavy fine-wale pique much in demand for wear with tailored and sport suits, $3.

Peter Pan blouses of voile with collars and cuffs of colored linen or white pique, $2.

Heavy white satin makes a pretty Peter Pan blouse at $7.50.

Blouses with hand-made filet lace, $12.75

Women's lovely Georgette blouses with their tucked fronts outlined with hand-made filet lace, $12.75.

(Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor)

Women's new braided serge dresses, $20

Silk braided back and front. The dress sketched is one that most women like—a coat dress with very straight lines. Note the extravagant braiding. $20.

These dresses are one of many daily surprises in the specialty shop of women's inexpensive dresses. None over $22.50.

(Filene's—mail orders filled—sixth floor)

Note: Women's new broadcloth suits, $35 Fifth floor

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash poisons and toxins from system before putting food into stomach

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast—like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb poisons into the blood causing illness, but the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food taken into the system, nearly an ounce of waste matter must be carried out of the body. If the waste is not eliminated daily, it quickly ferments and putrefies, causing gases and toxins which are absorbed into the blood, then the whole system is poisoned, each organ only working partly.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is obtained from any druggist for a few cents. This will wash the poisons, sour matter and toxins out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus thoroughly cleansing and sweetening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate is inexpensive, but enough to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

The corner entrance showing what can be done by progressive ideas in architecture, keeping always in mind the best results from a business standpoint, is exemplified by the corner entrance of our popular store.

It is but a starter of what's to be done inside the great store. When completed it will be the finest clothing store in the United States.

Business is already more than doubling, the stock we show has been greatly increased. You can find here everything you can wish, and it is reasonably priced. If you wish clothes, it will pay you to come to us; if you don't, it will be worth your while to see the new Continental.

THE BEST CLOTHES MADE IN AMERICA

When you say Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes you name the finest clothes made and the Largest Clothiers in America---and there is no other clothing concern near enough to be called second.

What's the Matter with Franklin St.?

That's all right—

The marvel of the clothing trade—

LESS than two years ago (May, 1918) the Continental opened a second store, taking the four-story building at the corner of Washington and Franklin streets — showing and selling Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes exclusively.

It was a success from the start and so many people wanted Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes that the building soon proved too small.

We've gone into the next building (up toward Summer street) and shall eventually double our selling space.

Our new overcoat room is the lightest, most convenient department possible to imagine and is connected by a fast running electric elevator. Come in and see what we are doing---we're pleased to serve you at either store.

SAYS NAVY CAN USE CAPE CANAL

Would Prove Its Value in Case of Emergency Blockade, Declares Bowles

The Cape Cod Canal would be of vital importance to the United States from a naval standpoint in case of the presence of a superior enemy force off the coast, Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles testified today at the Federal hearing.

Admiral Bowles was the first witness for the proposed Cape Cod Canal project, and his testimony was on the canal.

Admiral Bowles told the court that the canal would make possible the transfer of war vessels and war materials from point to point on the coast and would permit the preservation of coasting trade if a blockade was attempted.

The naval representation points out the United States fleet are Narragansett Bay and Hampton Roads. It would be possible, he said, to concentrate the canal fleet in a short time from north to south. The canal would have to be kept free for large ships as well as in its present condition it can handle destroyers, light cruisers and submarines.

BOSTON BOSTON!
ALL CHANGE!

WITH a start Mr. Newcomer awoke from his doze in the pullman chair, gathered his belongings, and swung down from the train in Boston's great South Station.

"Well, here I am!" he muttered to himself. "I've come to investigate Boston from every angle and find out whether it's the place I'm hunting for to move my business to. I can't stay where I'm located now; my business has grown so and competition is so fierce that I've simply got to find a new location offering the greatest possible natural and commercial advantages.

"I want to locate in a big, clean, progressive city with A Number 1 transportation facilities, handy to fuel and raw material supplies, with plenty of efficient labor available, with live-wire business organizations that back their home industries to the limit—a city strong financially, and with a sound, able municipal government.

"And then there are my wife and youngsters! I want a city with pleasant homes, plenty of parks and opportunities for wholesome recreation, where educational and religious facilities are of the best and a clean, friendly, up-and-coming community spirit prevails. Question is: Will I find all those advantages here in Boston?"

It's Mighty Interesting—What Mr. Newcomer Finds Out About Boston!

He's going to write his partner a series of letters telling him the result of his investigations here. Whether or not you live or do business in the Hub, it will be well worth your while to read these letters. You may think you know all there is to know about Boston, but there'll be some surprises in store for you just the same.

Mr. Newcomer's letters will appear at regular intervals in the American. Every man, woman and child in Boston will find in his comments something new and interesting about their old home town.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 10c and 25c.

An Internal Treatment For Piles (Hemorrhoids)

Gives absolute relief from all pain and suffering. Has never failed. Guaranteed.

Many people have become dead-beat because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was no remedy for their ease.

Go to your druggist and get a large bottle of Mitz Pile Remedy (the discovery of a clever Ohio chemist that reaches internally to the seat of trouble through the stomach and intestines, and thus reaches the cause of the trouble), where, by its soothing healing antiseptic action, it first allays and then by direct contact with the sore and tender parts effects a lasting cure of the worst case of piles ever.

It positively marvels in how speedily it gets Piles of any degree to stop bleeding, three days in most cases that have resisted all previous, so-called treatment, and in most cases nothing has been accomplished. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its program has to remember, refunded. Mitz Pile Remedy is sold by druggists and druggist's counter dispensers. Should you not get it from your druggist, it is worth the little trouble it takes to send to Mitz Pile Remedy Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

IMPORTANT: What is known as itching piles is not piles in the true sense of the word although the condition may accompany a case of piles. For this condition Mitz Pile Ointment has been prepared, in which case a special ointment is to be used in connection. Advertisement.

Why Do French Women Always Look Young?

In France mothers and daughters look like sisters. How are the women there able to keep their youthful appearance long past middle age? Is it because they are such great students of beauty culture? This may possess a very small amount of truth in it, but it surely removes the fine particles of dust on which germs are constantly dying and which are the immediate cause of an old looking complexion. Thus the duller, healthier younger skin beneath is given a chance to breathe and show itself. Try this treatment yourself. Most likely it will not require two weeks to show a new complexion as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. Just one ounce of ordinary mercolized wax (an American druggist has it) is all you need. Simply spread the wax in put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings. Advertisement.

LONG CHARGES PLOT AGAINST TOILERS

Claims Interests Banded Together to Prevent Labor From Securing Decent Wage

Charging that the "interests" were banded together to prevent labor from securing a decent wage, Richard H. Long, Democratic candidate for Governor, made an address last night at Tremont Temple.

He said in part:

"In Boston, in Lawrence, Lowell, Sylvania and Pennsylvania you have seen of late the outbreak of the protest of the toiler against a decent living wage with the interests strongly intrenched against it. You have seen an effort made in Washington to restore the last vestige of the old order. You have clearly seen improved conditions in the present Senate. Benjamin in Massachusetts you have clearly representing corporate greed and Long standing for the rights of those who toil. You must choose between them on Nov 4.

The workers, and by them I mean not only the day laborer but the clerk, teacher small business man wage earner and salaried employee are confronted by the determination of organized wealth and monopoly to deny them a just return for their work that will enable them to live decently. The American soldier returned from the battlefields of France with visions of a better democracy. He made demands which seem to him to be just and reasonable. They were for the most part demands to protect him against the abnormally high cost of living.

DENIED FREE SPEECH.

"How is he received? In Pennsylvania, the head of the steel industry arbitrarily refuses to discuss with him his grievances. He is denied the right to organize. He is run down in the streets by the constabulary, shot, assaulted, sent to prison.

At Lawrence the machine gun is trained on him. He is denied the right of free speech and of assembly and he witnesses the spectacle of the governor even refusing to confer with a delegation of women, some of whom bore the marks of assault committed upon them. He sees his own representatives denied substantiation before a Senate tribunal and frankly the grievances of the employer and the head of the American Woolen company brazenly fail to appear before the same tribunal.

In Boston he is branded as a coward and deserter even though he has exposed himself to death on the battlefields of France that his country might survive.

NOT ALWAYS "COWARDS."

"He certainly must recall, that he and his colleagues were not always branded as cowards and deserters. There was no charge of cowardice when Keiser received into his body the fatal bullet. The gunman when Norton was shot to death while in the performance of his duty or when Deininger was slain while protecting the public against the so-called auto bandits.

On May 31, 1918, the present Governor of the Commonwealth vetoed a bill passed by the Legislature to limit appointments and promotions in the police departments of all our cities and towns. In vetoing that proposed law, Governor Coolidge said and his words are contained in his veto message (Senate Document No. 673):

"The policemen of Massachusetts are recognized as among the most intelligent and efficient of any in the world. Their courage and ability have often been a subject of favorable comment and praise. They are the guardians of public security performing a function that lies at the foundation of all liberty. Nothing should be permitted that would tend in any degree to destroy that efficiency that is responsible for this splendid record. The democracy of Lowell ought to be maintained and no rule of seniority should be allowed to supersede the present democratic rule of efficiency."

"PROMOTE ANARCHY."

"Excoriations and denunciations of those who toil by those at the head of large corporations and those officials in public places will not settle the disturbed conditions of the time. They rather add to them. They tend to promote anarchy and lawlessness.

"No public servant or employer can lay claim to have a monopoly of law and order. No refusal to confer with employees who believe they have a just claim or grievance. Mediation and arbitration. The latest among the methods at disposal in fact providing by law. Await our notice. These and the record of an employer. There is nothing to arbitrate' will become as a relic of the past and the words, 'Red,' 'Anarchy' and 'lawlessness' will not so often glare up at us from the headlines of the press."

DECLARES WAR FAILED TO SAVE DEMOCRACY

Sir Athelstan Oct. 24.—In an address delivered this afternoon at the Western Massachusetts State Fair, Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, President of Amherst college declared that the late war did not make the world safe for democracy. After four years of the shame and horror, he said, of a comparatively futile war, in which the opposing forces fought on a strictly defined basis to make the world safe for democracy, we know now that the real underlying cause for all peoples, but for some peoples, in the most desperate commercial rivalry ever seen on earth.

Wars, he said, are not fought for principles, but for commercial supremacy.

EAT ONE TO-DAY

CHOCK FULL OF ALMONDS

When you deserve a slice of Big Business—

You will get it every time.

I've been in the chocolate business for years. Before I went into the Almond Bar end of it, I positively knew

1. That the business was enormous—that you are eating $54,000,000 worth every year.
2. That you wanted lots more almonds and better chocolate for your money.
3. When I could give it to you and not charge one cent more I'd win and win big.

Enormous production—my automatic all-in-one machines—and my French way of making chocolate did it.

TUFTS HAS HIGH HOPES OF DEFEATING YALE IN BOWL

Red Sox May Train at Tampa Instead of Hot Springs

The Red Sox may train at Tampa again. A short time ago President Frazee had about settled on going back to Hot Springs, Ark., where four Boston world's champion teams have been turned out. Since then the Red Sox boss has been talking with John McGraw and the latter held out the inducement of a profitable Spring barnstorming trip Northward with the Giants, who are again to camp at Gainesville, Fla.

Hence, Frazee is wavering

Quiet Day for Harvard Gridiron Warriors

Things were quiet behind the closed gates of the Harvard Stadium today except for the noisy drive of the carpenters building the extra 15,000 seats for the game with Yale. Coach Fisher usually lets his men take things easy the day before the games, and despite the fact that Harvard is presenting a battered front to the enemy, the rule held today.

Harvard has run up 132 points this fall on its four opponents, and has held its own goal line safe. Ralph Horween, who has scored thirty-eight, or one fourth of these points, with Eddie Casey making eighteen, are both out of tomorrow's lineup, although Art Hamilton, with three touchdowns, and Dick Humphrey, with a pair, are scheduled to start.

Yale with a [illegible] to Cambridge three years ago and went home defeated 41 to 0. The team which reaches Boston today is even less formidable as far as weight is concerned.

Murray will be at quarterback and, as usual, will try to drive the eleven down the field to a touchdown right at the very start. Humphrey will be the running back and Swede Nelson will take Art Hamilton's place, as the latter is to play fullback.

VISITING GOLFERS VICTORS

Providence Women Stampeding Boston Players in Big Tourney

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

A stampede of women's golf tournaments in the Boston district is being headed by Providence players and unless it is checked sports the Hub local women will take a poorer rating as natural golf than they do as players.

All of the host of town action is being sized up by women members of the Metropolitan Golf Club who have been taking advantage of the brisk Fall weather to drive this way and participate in the women's competitions which are always a feature of Fall golf.

The visits a delegation headed by Miss Isabella Gordon who came to America four years and five years ago. And won how was the Rhode Island women's championship four times, and Miss Gordon a Scottish woman golf who is an interesting figure in the golf world, and has made a brilliant start.

The Providence players were here Tuesday and in one of the weekly tournaments of the Women's Golf Association beat out by a neat score. Miss Gordon won't count for one of a odds and upon her first look at the course and it's said a number of her from fortune others. She was the only player to break 100.

HAS TOO MUCH GOLF.

Miss Gordon had too much Scotch stiff for the others. So might have been two strokes short of 90 if she had not spent seven on the home hole, after being in 3 tries. As Miss Gordon and Miss Colett finished right hen ad Miss Fanny Osgood one week before in the same sort of an event at the country club and as the Providence players have promised to be on hand for the remaining two tournaments of the association, the danger of their taking Boston's honors is apparent.

Miss Gordon is a sister of High and George Gordon who are prominent in the Rhode Island district. She says that she ought to be able to play the game and admits that she learned how in Scotland. But she adds "I never played in competition until I came to America." Miss Gordon also announced that she would not play again in the Rhode Island championship as she is satisfied with her four consecutive wins.

BAD LICK AT 34TH.

Miss Colett, who also is a member of Metacomet was in the running until the fourteenth hole. She made bad work of this one and was still in sight when she had played eight, going under cover with her fourth. She hit a long drive, but it hooked into heavy grass. She failed to get her second out, hooked her third to some unknown location, dropped another ball and sliced it across the fairway, reached the green after another effort, and finally holed out.

At the end of this performance she lost interest in the tou. gross She finished in 106, but vows vengeance the next time she visits Boston which will be next Thursday, when she will play at Brae-Burn Mrs. J. H. Arthur and Mrs. H. E. Kenworthy, both of Metacomet, took part in the tournament. Mrs. Kenworthy is the wife of the Providence

A Rock Bottom Fact!

"I demand for myself absolute comfort in shoes which are at the same time smart looking, well fitting and long wearing, and I can't expect any other man to demand less."

Elbert Hubbard

THE shoes in our store were made from leather and findings bought months ago before the recent tremendous advances.

The actual retail price, based on the cost of labor and materials used, was stamped on the soles during the process of manufacture. That price cannot be raised.

That is why The Emerson Shoe HONEST ALL THROUGH in our store is selling now from $2.00 to $5.00 a pair less than the same shoe would cost if made from materials bought today.

But "price" is only one of the reasons why you should buy Emersons. We can show you a wider variety of up-to-the-minute styles than you can find anywhere else in town. A glance at the models shown in our store windows will convince you of that. Whether you prefer the narrow toe, flat English last, or the medium broad toe, we can show you a model that will be the final word in fashionable footwear.

You do not have to worry about the wearing qualities of an Emerson Shoe. The trade-mark stamped on the sole is a guarantee of quality that has been rigidly maintained for over 40 years.

Whether or not you are in the market for a pair of shoes at the moment, it will pay you to call at our store, examine our shoes and convince yourself that Emerson Shoes will give you more per dollar than you can get elsewhere.

MECHANIC ARTS ELEVEN MEETS ENGLISH

English High and M. A. H. S. were to play today at Fenway Park. English has already won one city league game against Dorchester High and would have had little trouble adding another to their credit. The High school of Commerce and the Boston Latin School are the other teams that also will have to win from English to be the champions of the city. With both these teams the English High school will find plenty of opposition and will have to be at their best to gain the decision over either of them.

The Mechanics team this season is made up of all new men, as these was a team last year and while their record does not show up well against the other teams it is hardly to be considered when taking into consideration the tough team's that they are matched with. M. A. H. S. has the Bulldog spirit however which under will for the future.

English High has not played a game for two weeks but has been putting in plenty of time at scrimmaging in the last week. All the regulars that were injured with exception of Irie Arbeon will be back in the game today and coach Dris-

O'Flaherty expects to see a great deal of improvement in his team

The game of second importance on the local today was to be played at Stony Brook between Brighton and Hyde Park at Brighton High School. These teams are the best in the district High School League and the result of today's game was one of the chief factors in the deciding of the championship of the league.

Hyde Park won the heavier team but had plenty of work to stop the speed Brighton team. Tuck O'Brien and Captain Duffey have been starring for Hyde Park in the backfield for Tom Brennan, making long runs in all the games.

Hyde Park's individual star is Gen Hussey. He is three letter man in the school playing on the baseball team and football eleven.

The remaining games on the schedule were Arlington at Watertown which was the third Middle Valley League game to be played. Braintree at Abington and Huntington School at Noble & Greenough complete the list of games for today.

THE WICKED MARQUIS

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

NEW NOVEL FROM THE PEN OF THE FAMOUS AUTHOR

Love and Revenge Centre About an Agreeable English Aristocrat of the Old School and His Ancestral Estate

What Has Happened

The Marquis of [illegible] an English nobleman of a type [illegible] gone by, finds himself nearly bankrupt from law cases against Hesham Vent the occupant of a cottage on [illegible] refuses to vacate his own property. The Marquis accepts a loan from Isaac the sum of fourteen thousand pounds in order to settle the court bills with it at it would be useless to make another appeal, even to the House of Lords. A young woman appears to the Marquis in the grill room of the Savoy and he snubs her. David Thain, a young American millionaire, protege of the Duchess is introduced to the Marquis. The Marquis relates to Thain how he took the daughter of Vent away with him. After luncheon he calls on Mr. Hannaway. She tells him that the allowance he has made her has not been paid recently, and he has a row with his solicitor about it. Thain is given a dinner party, after which the Marquis tells Thain he would like to make a million dollars without trouble to himself and with no chance of loss. Thain suggests oil stock. Marsh tells her publisher James Bowler, that she cannot marry him, she is to go to Mandelays with him to see her father, Richard Vent. Thain visits his newfound home. The Marquis tells his secretary that he has bought 40,000 pounds worth of oil shares.

THE Marquis collected himself. Colonel Tarvey had been asked three hundred a year and was paying two hundred, a sum which, somehow or other, the Marquis had always considered his own pocket money and which had never gone into the estate accounts. A little increase would certainly be pleasant.

"Would five hundred a year seem too much, Mr. Thain?" he asked. "I [illegible] you are sure [illegible] was a first rate [illegible] He is always want[illegible] time, wasn't he, father? [illegible] relief" the Mar[illegible] watching with satisfaction [illegible] from his guest. [illegible] relief to find a [illegible] Mr. Thain."

About the Shooting

"[illegible] your agent," David re[illegible] a little diffidently, "about [illegible]"

The Marquis touched his g[illegible] "Dissent," he directed, "[illegible] wood port, if we have [illegible] he added a little hastily, to the Duchess's relief of his domestic [illegible] shooting oh, Mr. Thain?"

He sipped his wine and considered. "Best Broomleys, and then the shooting! The gods were very kind to [illegible] this pleasant April morning."

"You haven't preserved lately, I understand," his guest observed.

"Not for some years," the Marquis acknowledged.

"I don't mind about that at all," David went on. "I am just American enough, you know, to find no pleasure in shooting tame birds. I shall have no parties and I shall not be ambitious about bags. I like to prowl about myself with a gun."

His host nodded appreciatively.

"You shall have the refusal of the shooting," he promised. "At the moment I am not prepared to quote terms. My people of business can do that."

"Have you no friends in England, Mr. Thain?" Letitia asked, a little abruptly.

"Very few," David replied. "I do not make friends easily."

"I always thought Americans were so sociable," she remarked. "A great many of your compatriots have settled down here, you know."

David considered the matter for a moment.

"You would smile, I suppose," he said, "if I were to tell you that there are more so-called 'best' in American society than in your own. I am a very self-made man indeed, and I possess no connexion to entertain for me. I am therefore dependent upon chance acquaintances."

"Such friends as may make your sojourn in Norfolk more agreeable, Mr. Thain," the Marquis promised genially, "you shall most certainly find. Mandelays will always be open to you."

No Response

David made no immediate response. His teeth had come together with a little click. He felt a strange sympathy just lifting the glass, which the butler had just filled, to his lips. A queer little vision of Mandelays and the cottage was there, Richard Vent, seated amongst those drooping rose bushes, his face turned towards the Abbey, his eyes full of that strange, expectant light. A sudden feeling of self-disgust almost broke through a composure which had so far resisted all assaults upon it. Almost he felt that he must rise from his place, tell this strange, polished, yet curiously childlike being the truth, that he was entertaining an enemy unawares.

"You must really try that wine, Mr. Thain," he heard his host say [illegible] "I have no excuses for not offering you vintage port. At Mandelays I have at least the remnants of a cellar. You must dine with us there, Mr. Thain, and I will give you what my grandfather used to declare was 1834 vintage."

David roused himself with an effort. He brushed aside the uncomfortable twinge of conscience which had suddenly assailed him, and turning away from Letitia, looked his host in the eyes.

"You are very kind," he said. "I shall indeed be [illegible] pleasure."

RAILS ADVANCE AND STEELS ARE FIRM

Oil Issues Are a Strong Class During an Active Morning

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon after having kept on a higher level during the morning. Rails made gains and a dividend while steels were steady. Motors were heavy as a group. Shipping shares had rallied. This was true of sugars also. There was nothing sensational about the market. It was active, however. Pirat, four transactions totalled nearly 400,000 shares. Middle States Oil was quite a feature, advancing more than ten points during the forenoon.

Largest gains were made by American Zinc, Baldwin, Baldwin, Central Leather, Chandler, Mexican Petroleum, Texas Co., Fan American, Remington Typewriter, which sold at its record highest; Republic Steel, U. S. Rubber and Texas & Pacific.

Declines were almost wholly fractional.

Call money opened at 5 per cent. The foreign exchange market was steady, with rates showing slight change.

EARLY GAINS THE RULE.

Gains were the rule at the opening, but they averaged small, and while it had a firm tone the market was no more than fairly strong at the beginning. Barring Crucible and Lackawanna, steels advanced, and motors and oils sold higher. Shipping shares were rather weak. Equipments improved and were led by Baldwin. Traders were hesitant when business began and their uncertainty was apparent in the slow price improvement. The public did not participate to any extent. The market was professional in character. The reaction on Thursday eliminated many weak lings. Prices advanced a little further during the early hour, but there was no pronounced change during the morning. Malls were more active than usual and showed strength. Southern Pacific was in the van of this group. Reading started with a point gain.

REACTION WAS EXPECTED.

The reaction which made the preceding day a memorable session this week was expected. The rise in business was not a surprise to banking and brokerage interests. Speculation had been overdone in the face of a high cost of living and industrial conditions calling for caution. Valuations had been elevated until the apex bulged and the prevailing issues were the topple off some excess weight. The market was due for a reaction. There is more fear now of a long battle than there is hope of peace between employer and labor. It is evident that it will take foreign exchange rates a long time to work back to normal. Even if some plan is adopted which will satisfactorily finance export trade, the problem is hard to solve, and persistent circulation of rumors concerning President Wilson's illness is not inspiring confidence. But stronger than all the fears that are making money magnates feel nervous is the fundamental faith that all that is needed to insure unparalleled prosperity is to give business a chance.

Manganese Output

Production of manganese in this country during the first half of 1919 year totalled 44,839 tons, it is reported by the Geological Survey. Production for the six months was 1,000 tons less than for any quarter in 1918. Importations of manganese ore during the first six months were 225,385 tons, of which Brazil furnished 172,996, Cuba 33,013 and Costa Rica 5,374 tons.

The combined net earnings available for dividends of the subsidiary companies of the Massachusetts Gas Cos. for September were $350,910, a decrease of $44,624, or 11.03 per cent., compared with the corresponding month a year ago.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Oct. 24.—Shorts were active buyers at the opening of the cotton market, causing an advance of 15 points. PRICE CHANGES MIXED IN BOSTON

Local Market Steady at the Opening and Irregular During Morning

Prices were steady in Boston when the local exchange began business and during the morning the list was mixed as to price changes. While the price trend was indecisive more stocks advanced than declined. Trading had breadth, but no particular feature. It was of fair volume, measured by the recent standard. At noon the market was still irregular.

Parish and Bingham and Stewart both sold at a new highest record prices on the first transactions. They to advance further. In fact, the first named soon showed a loss, while the other receded from its highest. U. S. Smelting, reflecting the high prices for silver, reached its highest point for the year to date and was active as well as strong.

Largest gains during the morning were made by Gray and Davis, Wallham Watch and Boston Elevated. The latter advanced one to two points, with the last named the strongest of this group. Franklin, National Leather and Utah Metals.

Among issues to decline were Quincy, Old Dominion, American Sugar, Mexican Investment and Edison. They were of little importance, the weakening the most. Root and Van Dervoort, Liberty, Swift & Co. and Adams Express showed only fractional losses at the end of the forenoon.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPEN FOR BRITISH LOAN

In announcing on behalf of Lee, Higginson & Co. that subscription books opened this morning for the new issue of $250,000,000 United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland 5½ per cent. notes, due November 1, 1922, at 98 and interest to yield about 6.32 per cent., and 10-year 5½ per cent. bonds, due August 1, 1929, at 96¾ and interest, to yield about 6 per cent. it is stated that principal and interest are payable in dollars in New York City. The denomination is for $1000, $500 and $100.

It is also stated: "Both of the above issues are convertible at par at any time into National War 5½ per cent. bonds, due February 1, 1938, at the exchange rate of $4.30 to the pound sterling. These bonds are free from all taxation if held by persons not domiciled or ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. These bonds are now selling in London at about 98¾.

"We believe it is reasonable to expect that within the next few months sterling exchange will recover sufficiently so that a profit will accrue to purchasers of these 10-year bonds.

GREAT DEMAND FOR HIGH GRADE COTTON

The demand for high grade cotton is so keen that shippers unable to fill requirements in Texas have searched Alabama and Georgia for staples of suitable quality, which has caused arrangements in some cases of three cents a pound in the price between grades of similar grade in Galveston and Augusta.

"The situation," says a local financial publication, "appears to have resolved itself in the last few weeks into a question of how far buyers to fill commitments for the better grades for the current month.

"The export outlook has brightened considerably. Liverpool has commenced to export to th eContinent, Some prominent Liverpool men have been recorded in the past week. One well-known cotton broker says that he knows personally of large quantity of cotton for export held up owing to the scarcity of shipping."

German Potash Coming

Two cargoes of potash have been received from Germany already and more are coming. 10,000 tons being due by the end of November and 60,000 tons during the five months of 1920. It is needed for fertilizing and the war it sold around $20 a ton and is bringing $70 now. During the war the little belt in this country commanded $400 a ton.

Highest in Fifty Years

Silver is now bringing the highest price paid for white metal in half a century or more, having sold in New York within a few days at 123½ an ounce. The demand for silver in India and China seems to be insatiable.

Kennecott Copper Output

September production by Kennecott was 9,928,000 pounds of copper, its best showing for a month since January last.

BOTH JAIL AND FINES FOR LIQUOR OFFENDERS

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 24.—Jail sentences of one month each and heavy fines were meted out by Judge Marcy in the Hillsborough County Superior Criminal Court to five local men who pleaded guilty to violating the liquor laws.

Four of the men were released after paying their fines. They will report at a later date, to be arraigned by the court, to serve their sentence of thirty days.

WOMAN NOT GUILTY OF MALICIOUS MISCHIEF

Attleboro, Oct. 24.—When Julia Agos of George street tore down a fence near her property, neighbors had her arrested on a charge of malicious mischief, and the evidence in court was so entangling that Judge Hagerty halted trial while he viewed the premises. Mrs. Agos was discharged.

Sugar Shortage Warns Us to Be Careful in Exports

The experience we are having in the shortage of sugar may have many parallels in other commodities if we are not careful.

Although seemingly mysterious, this sugar famine is really simple.

The world uses about 15,000,000 tons a year and in normal peace times gets them rather easily because the production is widely distributed.

But five and a half years of war have disarranged the production and added clamor to the demand.

On the sugar sold to Americans the refiner's profit is approximately a cent and a half a pound.

On the sugar sold to Europeans his profit is about two cents a pound.

Guess which market he prefers.

Not only is it to his interest to send as much sugar abroad as possible, but to his interest is added the interest of all the other exporters who by mixing sugar with other foods can also take a profit.

Thus we have witnessed recently a large increase in exports of condensed milk, on which the exporter realizes a profit both for the milk and for the sugar by which the milk is preserved.

The same, of course, is true of all sweetened canned foods.

While we were at war the Food Administration did something to allocate the food production of the United States among ourselves, our associates in the war and the peoples to whose relief we contributed.

But with the armistice came increased needs and clamors from abroad and relaxed control at home. Also relaxed self-control by Americans who, during the war, were willing to economize.

So now we have sugar lines and half-pound limitations, with often no sugar at all, while the more enterprising foreign nations, notably Great Britain, are getting twice and thrice the supply of sugar to which they were limited during the war.

We had the chance to buy at a fair price all we wanted of this year's Cuban crop, and the Sugar Equalization Board urged President Wilson to use his authority to take up the option.

But at that moment the single track mind was running on the League of Nations schedule, and it failed to function on so purely domestic and practical a question as whether the American people should have a sufficient supply of sugar in their homes.

The Equalization Board's suggestion to the President was not acted upon. Great Britain appeared on the Cuban scene, our option expired, Britain took the bulk of the reserve and we are now experiencing some of the consequences.

The point about this sugar famine that needs to be kept in mind is that what happened to sugar may quite as easily happen to flour, meat, potatoes or any of a hundred articles essential to the wellbeing of the American people if we fail to look the stable door before the horse is stolen.

We are not yet prepared to say that an embargo is necessary. America does not want to impose an embargo, save as a last desperate step in self-protection.

We are an exporting nation, and wish to remain one. We look forward with pride and expectancy to a largely increased commerce on the seas. And at the base of this reasonable expectation lies the necessity of administering fairly to the needs of those whose trade we wish to cultivate.

Moreover, we are a merciful and humane nation, ever prompt to share out of our abundance with others who are in distress.

It is not the desire of the American people to turn an indifferent or wholly selfish ear to the appeals which come from so many stricken sections of the war-scarred world for aid in restoration of tolerable conditions or for elemental necessities to keep millions of suffering people barely alive.

But it is simply the statement of a truth incontestable that the first duty of the American Government is to the American people.

If the supply of our commodities is sufficient to meet moderate home needs and afford full relief throughout the broad circle of clamorous foreign demand, then let the moderate home needs be provided for and the surplus speeded on its foreign way.

But let us take no rash chance on famine and suffering at home.

The duty is upon our government, in this time of acute world disturbance, to keep vigilant watch upon the relation between supply and demand, and to see that the American supply is not so far drained into foreign channels as to leave an unsatisfied and a frenzied and possibly turbulent American demand.

Certainly the American people will not be content to see profiteers strip them bare of sugar or other food, in order that a maximum of profit may be accumulated by a few by catering to the foreign demand.

FORM YOUR OWN OPINIONS ON FACTS

When you are worsted in an argument or in a deal, do you always think the other fellow devoid of brains because he didn't agree with you?

You had not thought of it this way, but an unbiased look at yourself might be a good thing.

Perhaps you pride yourself on being a man of strong ideas and opinions and one unafraid to advance them—a man who would not change if the universe were against him.

You think the man who changes his ideas lacks stamina or has no well-founded principles.

By this you show your ignorance, man.

Just because you have a different opinion from others is no reason why it is better than others, if you do think so.

The one-idea individual is a weak one if he cannot see his own faults.

Everything in life is change of form according to principle.

Can't your thoughts and ideas grow and progress with age and experience, so that a few years hence your words of then and now might seem contradictory and yet show you a man of real strength, able to put your thoughts to facts as you learn them?

PA SEES SUN SPOTS

By S. E. KISER

PA thinks that spots upon the sun are causin' trouble here;
He speaks about the wrong that's done, his heart is full of fear;
"There's fights and strikin' everywhere," he says to me and me;
"The weather's hardly ever fair, the way it used to be;
Men run away with people's wives; and see the prices, too;
Folks can't be livin' peaceful lives the way they used to do.

"THE fruit is gettin' et by worms—it seems so, anyhow;
We never used to hear of germs; we can't escape 'em now;
The bandits shoot and loot; it seems that nothing's right no more;
There's dirty water in the streams that were so clear before;
It's always rainin' dogs and cats and spoilin' people's fun;
I guess it must be something that's the matter with the sun.

"LOOK how they charge for milk and meat and everything we wear;
Just notice when you're in the street the loafers loafin' there,
Yet people that has work to do can't get no help, they say,
And every day there's something new to drive our hopes away;
We hear about the Bolsheviks that want to kill and burn;
There's nothing that we get but kicks, whatever way we turn.

"THERE'S trouble everywhere you look; we've lost our freedom, too;
Unless you learn to be a crook your chances here are few;
An honest man don't have a show and decency is dead;
It seems that everywhere you go the folks are seein' red;
There's strikes and riots and distress and trouble by the ton;
The world is all upset, I guess, by spots upon the sun"

MA sat and darned a little while; there seemed to be no end
To all the socks piled in a pile that she'd brought out to mend;
So when she spoke she said: "I fear the spots you speak about
May be upon your liver, dear; we'd best be findin' out."
Pa emptied out his pipe and run his fingers through his hair;
There may be spots upon the sun, but he forgot to care.

The young man who is afraid the girl is about to bolter him into a proposal can always reach temporary safety by reopening the argument about the League of Nations.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—Will you please write something about the "cranky boss"? A born grouch and sorehead who eternally finds fault? Who is never so happy as when he is miserable?

I think if God Himself worked for my boss he would find fault with Him. C. G.

MY DEAR Cornie.
ONCE UPON a time.
IN AN office.
WHERE I worked.
THERE WAS a boss.
WHO WAS a crab.
AND KICKED all the time.
AND IN the office.
THERE WAS a girl.
AND SHE suggested.
THAT AT Christmas time.
WE GIVE him something.
AND MAKE him feel badly.
AND WE all agreed.
AND MAKE a collection.
AND WHATEVER we bought him.
I'VE FORGOTTEN now.
BUT THE day before Christmas.
WE TOOK it in.
AND HANDED it to him.
AND IT must have been.
THAT IT made him sick.
BECAUSE ON Christmas Day.
HE WAS taken down.
AND NEVER came back.
AND THREE months later.
THEY TOOK him South.
AND WHERE he is now.
I HAVEN'T any idea.
BUT I know he's gone.
AND READING my column.
OF COURSE you know.
THAT I wouldn't do anything.
TO MAN or beast.
BECAUSE BEING a member.
OF THE Band of Hope.
I HAD to swear it.
AND IF I killed a man.
I WOULD break my oath.
WHICH I wouldn't do.
BUT ANYWAY, Cornie.
YOU CAN see what happened.
TO THE crab we had.
AND IT'S coming on Christmas.
AND WHILE I know.
THAT WHAT happened to us.
MIGHTN'T HAPPEN again.
YOU KNOW it's true.
WHAT THE barber said.
"YOU NEVER can tell."
BUT IF you feel.
THAT IT wouldn't be right.
JUST TO take the chance.
WHY NOT go a whole week.
AND COMPLETELY forget.
THAT YOUR boss is a grouch.
AND BE just as pleasant.
AS YOU know how to be.
AND SEE what happens.
IT MIGHT turn out.
HE'D WANT you to marry him.
AND ONCE married to him.
SEE HOW you could worry him.
AND GET even with him.

I THANK you.

Fate Stepped In

I read a little story in a magazine of a man who was one of those charming "home evils." No one and nothing could cure him of his disagreeable ways until finally Fate stepped in. He ran a needle into his foot one night and dragged out only half of it. Then he became convinced that the other half was wandering about in his system and that he had only a short time to live. He began to think how little he would be missed and experienced a decided change of heart. In the end he became so gentle and kind that he was hardly recognized as the same person that had made his home a storm centre. And his wife never told him that she had found the other half of the needle lying on the floor.

Travel Is Suggested

Why should she not try a more subtle expedient? She is evidently worn down with his constant faultfinding. I am sure that any doctor would prescribe change of air and scene for her. She can afford to travel and nothing would freshen her up so much, while at the same time it would give her a chance to view her affairs in perspective, which is always a good thing. It is wise before making any definite decisions to get entirely away from the scene of conflict.

And picture his state of mind after she starts off on a much-needed and protracted vacation. He has got to keep up his pose of being a kind, genial, pleasant person, free-handed and gift-giving. He will have no one to whom he can exhibit his cranky side, no one to wreak his bad tempers on. He cannot behave like a naughty, spoiled child in a tantrum to his friends or to his children, who, she says, are out in the world and independent of him. He will therefore have no one to tease or torment. He has built up his reputation for being a thoroughly good sort and he has got to stand by it.

WAY OUT FOR THOSE WHO SUFFER ALONE

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

THERE is something in our lives which bothers us frightfully.

It is a very personal matter, and we long to talk it out, but there is literally no one with whom we feel that we can discuss it. Mentally we go over the list of those more or less intimately associated with us, but this one would be more or less unsympathetic, that one would be indifferent, the other would never understand, and still another would tell every one she knew.

The whole thing is a muddle in our own mind. There are a dozen different factors that enter into it, and they are all hopelessly tangled. The necessity becomes more and more imperative to talk things over with someone.

This is the state of mind of a woman who has written me of her troubles. She married a widower a good many years older than herself and with several children, and as far as material circumstances go, she is very comfortable, having considerable property of her own.

One Woman's Complaint

She says: "When the children or company are with us everything goes beautifully, but when we are by ourselves he is so cross and restless that it is impossible to live with him. Everything I say or do annoys him, and if I don't say or do anything it is the same.

"We have a nice home and the children are kind and good. They see how things are going, but they don't say anything. It often looks to me as if he just did these things to make me miserable. I don't nag nor pry into his affairs, and he has never accused me of these things, but I feel that I cannot endure it much longer."

This woman seems to have followed all the rules of the game. She has made a comfortable home; she has endeared herself to her husband's children; she doesn't nag nor pry. But all this apparently counts for nothing with the unappreciative man. And he has cut away the ground from under her feet. She cannot complain to any of her friends, because when they see him he is always genial and pleasant. So there she is, walled up in her own little tower of silence. Of course, she might try orisons and give him a dose of his own medicine; but he is probably a better fighter than she and would come off with first honors.

How Bees Divide Sugar Two Parasites—Kill Both Industry Is War Let Him Plot

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1919.)

Three thousand pounds of sugar are ordered sent to Massachusetts to feed starving bees. One single county will need at least thirty or forty thousand pounds. Its bees had a bard Summer because of the rain.

It is a comfort to know that when the bees get the sugar they divide it up fairly. Each gets his share. Early in the season they killed off all the drones, non-workers. Only one bee gets more than the others, and is not a bee that puts the little bees at work and lives on the profits. Nor is it the bee that watches others while they work and takes the product away from them, giving them just enough to live on till the next day. The extra amount is given by the bees to the mother bee, called by human beings the queen bee, the only bee in the hive that has children.

She sees her husband only once in her whole life, on which occasion he dies. Then she raises little bees while all the others work. This seems a just, although a rather dull, arrangement, especially dull for the father bee.

Things are managed differently in the human hive—too much sugar for a few, not enough for many.

They were going to invite Cousens, Mayor of Detroit, to Canada to make a polite bow before the Prince of Wales.

Suddenly faithful Canadian subjects told Mayor Cousens that he need not come. The change was made because the Mayor had officially received Eamon De Valera, President of the Irish Republic.

That is an interesting little piece of news. It would interest some of the American old-timers, Patrick Henry, Jackson, Jefferson, and other gentlemen now nearly out of date.

A Mayor in a republic that established its independence by fighting against England, ventures to receive politely a man who represents the efforts of Ireland to establish a republic in the same way. And as a punishment this Detroit Mayor is told that he can't shake hands with the Prince of Wales, some day to be successor to our old friend George Third.

There are some near the top in England that would tell the Canadian gentlemen they acted foolishly. The time hasn't yet come for telling Mayors of American cities whom they may receive without offending Great Britain.

Mr. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company, spoke eloquently at Atlantic City about "a common foe, an enemy within us, a parasite born of the war," the Bolshevik-Bolshevism alias discontent, and thought it important to kill that parasite. It is important, but another parasite was born of the war, named "profiteering," and the profiteering parasite is the father and mother of the parasite of discontent.

Cut down prices, check profiteering, that people may live decently on what they can earn decently, and you will find the so-called Bolshevik parasite looking anaemic and a little later you will find it dead.

Labor, capital and the stormy petrel "intellectuals" that shiver and moan between the two, were called to Washington to settle all the troubles. The result was well and briefly described by young Mr. Lawrence as follows: "Labor asked for everything and got nothing."

Labor probably got what it expected.

Now the great conference is "off." Capital, which deals with everything and everybody collectively, said politely to labor, "We won't deal with you collectively. We prefer to consider workingmen as individual, separate atoms, attached to our organization."

Labor said, "Good-bye." Now the stormy petrels, so-called "public group" that hover between the capitalistic parasite and the other place, are asked if they can't do something and are going to see about it.

The President in his letter to the industrial conference asks "Are we to confess that there is no method to be found for carrying on industry except in the spirit and with the very method of war?"

On one side stones and clubs have been used, on the other shrewd lawyers, strike-breaking, and the weight of money, and private detectives.

They say the former Kaiser is busy plotting with royalists. Not interesting and not important. Let him plot.

In France, pretenders to the throne have been plotting ever since Germany kindly relieved France of an emperor, as France and others have recently relieved Germany of her emperor.

Nobody pays any attention to the French royalist plotting. There is no need to pay any to the German plotting. If Germany knows one thing it is that she doesn't need another Kaiser. The man who has been run over by the cars doesn't signal for the train to come back and run over him again.
